OSAKA, Japan, March 2.— (Thursday)—(AP)—Police announced today that probably 200 persons were blown to bits and burned to death and at least 200 others injured in yesterday's explosion of an army arsenal in suburban Hirakata.

The police communique said 600 homes were destroyed by the flames which swept through the suburb from exploding munitions.

As a result 5,800 persons were homeless.

The disaster, unprecedented for its type in Japan's industrial history, occurred at 3:20 p. m. yesterday (12:20 a. m., Atlanta time, Wednesday) from an undetermined cause.

Windows were broken for miles around by the force of the blasts, telephone and telegraph wires were thrown down, and railway

CARDINALS BEGIN CONCLAVE ON POPE

Entire College of 62 Put in Virtual Prison; Secret Balloting Starts Today.

VATICAN CITY, March 1.—(AP)—
The college of cardinals went solemnly and ceremoniously into secret conclave today to choose a new pope, the 262d occupant of the chair of Peter.

For the first time in many years the entire membership of the college, now numbering 62, was present for the opening of the conclave which will begin voting tomorrow on a new spiritual head of 331,500,000 Catholics.

At a morning mass the cardinals prayed for guidance of the Holy Ghost and heard a sermon exhorting them to choose as a successor to peace-loving Pius XI a man who might lead the world back to "Christian precepts" despite present-day "social disorders and hated among nations."

In the afternoon the opening ceremonies began. As the cardinals assembled, the sun broke through a sudden shower and a rainbow arched over the Vatican.

Cardinals in "Prison."

At nightfall, Prince Ludovico Chigi-Albani, hereditary marshal of the meeting, turned the keys of two big locks on the outer door of the Vatican wing in which the cardinals and their attendants were housed.

Two other locks on the inner door clicked a moment later as Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, the camerlengo, completed the sealing of the gathering which will remain in its "prison" until a cloud of white smoke from the chimney of the sistine chapel announces the selection of a new pope.

Although all 62 cardinals were within the conclave prefect, Francesco Cardinal Marchetti-Selvagiani and Tommaso Cardinal Boggiati.

2 NEW AIR ROUTES LINKING ATLANTA TO WEST SOUGHT

Great Area Will Be Made More Accessible for Gate City's Business If Certificate Is Granted.

DENVER, AMARILLO ON DIRECT LINES

Braniff Cites Atlanta
as Southeastern Hub of Air Transportation.

New airlines opening a midwestern area for Atlanta trade loomed as probable yesterday when Braniff Airways, Inc., petitioned the Civil Aeronautics Authority for permission to establish direct commercial plane routes between this city, Denver and Amarillo, Texas.

T. E. Braniff, president of the airline, whose chief route of operation is between Texas and the north, was in Atlanta yesterday making advance plans contingent on the CAA granting the certificate for operation.

The Atlanta route is only one in a planned network of midwestern air routes which will open hitherto inaccessible areas, furnishing fast transportation and putting Atlanta at a "time" distance no greater than eight hours from Denver, Braniff said.

Proposed Routes.

In Washington, the CAA announced the Braniff Airways, Inc., whose headquarters are in Oklahoma City, had applied for permission to operate air routes between:

Atlanta and Amarillo via Oklahoma City and Tulsa and Memphis.

Atlanta and Denver via Kansas City and Memphis.

Tulsa and New Orleans via Shreveport and Baton Rouge.
Braniff cited many reasons why his company is desirous of an outlet in Atlanta, not the least important among which was that Atlanta is the southeastern hub of air traffic and furnishes direct connections to Miami and the South American routes.

"We expect Charleston to be the main terminal of the trans-Atlantic air routes and when this takes place western traffic will be routed through Atlanta over our proposed line in a direct, straight line flight to San Francisco or Seattle," he said.

Pointing out that the southwestern and northern territories to be served by the proposed routes are the most inaccessible in the nation, Braniff said Atlanta businessmen could fly into the territory.

AFL PEACE LEADER REFUSES TO SERVE IN TALKS WITH CIO

Daniel Tobin, Who Asked Unity Negotiations at Federation Convention, Claims Work Pressure.

LEADERS SUSPECT OTHER REASONS

His Refusal May Delay Start of Conference Requested by Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—
(UP)—President Roosevelt's latest effort to reunite the warring American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations struck a snag tonight when Daniel Tobin, the AFL's chief peace advocate, refused to serve on the federation committee.

Tobin, president of the powerful Teamsters' Union, declined appointment as one of the AFL's three negotiators in a terse telegram to Federation President William Green.

Green Surprised.

Green, obviously surprised and disappointed, said he would seek a new committee member immediately and that he hoped to announce the selection tomorrow.

Tobin, whose peace efforts were noted by Mr. Roosevelt in his dramatic labor unity plea last Saturday, told Green that it was "absolutely and utterly impossible" for him to serve "because of the enormous amount of work involved and innumerable wages contracts expiring" in his union. His organization is the largest in the federation.

Labor men suspected, however, that other reasons influenced the decision but none would make a guess.

Perkins Refuses Comment.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who has publicly praised Tobin for his peace efforts, would not comment. Earlier in the day, she had announced that she expected to call the AFL and CIO conferences together within a week, possibly at the White House, after Mr. Roosevelt returns to Washington, March 4.

It was not revealed whether the Tobin development would delay the conference, date for which Miss Perkins was expected to announce at a press conference Friday.

Tobin made his first public bid for labor unity in an appeal to the nation.

Georgia 'Stitch in Time' Endures Through the Years

A "stitch in time" that has endured nearly "ninety-and-nine" years.

Williams Mill road, N. E., exhibits in her right hand an example of the sewing machine invented by her great-grandfather, Dr. Francis Robert Goulding, Presbyterian minister, author and inventor. In her left hand Miss Goulding holds an antique carpenter's brace, which her versatile ancestor used in making his sewing machine, the first in Georgia.

Atlantan Tells Congress- men Sectional Lines Should Be Banned.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—
Testifying before the house Interstate Commerce committee, E. L.
Hart, traffic manager of the Atlanta Freight Bureau, today urged the adoption of legislation which would eliminate sectional lines in our national transportation system.

The Atlanta man was one of a series of witnesses to condemn the present national rate structure as discriminatory against southern and western shippers. Present rate barriers, he said, violate every rule of fairness and militate against a national system of rail transportation.

At the end of today's hearings, which marked the second day of testimony given over to the rate question, Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, leader of the newly organized house freight rate bloc of southern and western members, expressed himself as well pleased with the evidence presented in behalf of pending measures to revamp freight tariffs.
Members of the bloc, he asserted, will demand that corrective legis-

Book Heroine To Be Cast In Marble for Posterity

Girl Castaway in 'Young Marooners' Was Inspired by Georgia Daughter of Author; Reprinting of Gould-ing Book Being Sought.

By ST. JOHN BARNWELL.

A book heroine who first thrilled the youth of three generations ago will have a marble statue erected in her honor.

She is the little girl castaway in "The Young Marooners," a character modeled after the daughter of the author, Francis Robert Goulding, Georgia minister, author and inventor of the first sewing machine—which was destroyed before patent rights were obtained.

This unusual memorial is being advocated by Georgia educators who are so impressed with the importance of "The Young Marooners" they are not only eager to have the book reprinted but to commemorate the heroine.

"I believe the book will do much for any generation," said Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology,
"for it will encourage nature
study. The late Harry Stillwell Edwards has pointed out that the plot concerning children marooned on an island who lived by their own ingenuity, has encouraged the boy and scout organizations to flourish."

Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, said "I read the book as a boy and have never been able to forget it! The Georgia School of Technology, for it will encourage nature study. The late Harry Stillwell Edwards has pointed out that the
plot concerning children marooned
on an island who lived by their own ingenuity, has encouraged the boy and scout organizations to flourish."

'Used Car Week' Is Proclaimed By Governor and Atlanta's Mayor

Restoration of employment and improvement in general business conditions in Atlanta are expected to result from a city-wide movement to sell used automobiles beginning Saturday, automobile officials said yesterday.

Proclamations setting aside the period from March 4 to March 11 as "Used Car Exchange Week" in Atlanta were issued by Governor Rivers and Mayor Hartford.

The Atlanta campaign will be conducted simultaneously with a nation-wide movement to sell used cars and stimulate automobile ownership. One of the objectives will be to promote safety of the highways by removing dangerous

COMMITTEE OKAYS 3 PER CENT FIGURE FOR A 'SHOWDOWN'

Spending Bill Held Up as Harris Asks Solons To Vote Taxes and Tailor Outlays To Fit Them.

MINORITY REPORT ASKS LUXURY LEVY

Sales Impost Would Go to Schools, Eleemosynary Units and to Counties.

By The Associated Press.

The house ways and means committee reported favorably late yesterday for passage of a measure which would levy a retail sales tax of 3 per cent, clearing the way for an immediate showdown fight in the house over taxation.

Committee action followed a dramatic session in which the house tabled a proposed $100,- 000,000 biennial appropriations bill.

Ask Luxury Tax.

Submitted along with the recommendation that the three per cent sales tax bill be enacted was a minority report by Representative Marvin Allison, of Gwinnett, asking that his luxury tax measure be placed on the calendar for the purpose of disagreeing with the general committee report.
Representative Edwards filed a minority report on the sales tax measure.

The action places the luxury tax, calling for a 20 per cent levy, in position for action by the house in the event the sales tax should be voted down.

Speaker Roy V. Harris, who recessed the house in an unexpected move after it tabled the appropriations plan, to permit the ways and means committee to meet and bring out a tax measure, made a strong plea before the group to bring out a tax measure and "let's fight this tax matter out on the floor."

Make Them Balance.

He explained his position was to establish what taxes would be voted, thus ascertaining the available revenue, and then to have the appropriations bill removed from the table and adjusted to fit the money anticipated.

The sales tax measure levies three per cent on retail sales generally, with the proceeds thus raised allocated one-third to the State.

Georgia's Financial Tangle: Can You Find the Answer?

(By The Associated Press)

Here's the legislative problem at a glance:
Total expenditures possible under appropriations measure for next two years: $132,000,000.

Included in the budget, both appropriated and allocated funds:
$100,598,327.28.

General funds: $22,757,651.14 for the year ending June 30, 1940. $23,478,120.14 for the year ending June 30, 1941.

Allocated funds: $27,181,278 for each year.

Non-tax funds: $32,000,000 (based on actual collections last year of $16,657,934, a figure subject to variation by changes in federal grants, fees, rents, etc.).

Current revenue for the general fund: $12,500,000.

Current deficit: $8,500,000.

Potential deficit if house enacts bill now on table:

$10,257,651.14 for year ending June 30, 1940.

$10,978,120.14 for year ending June 30, 1941.

$21,235,771.28 for the two years.

Possible additional revenue sources discussed by legislators:

Three per cent retail sales tax (estimated $11,000,000 annually, sufficient to cover anticipated deficit).

Twenty per cent luxury tax (estimated to raise between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 annually).

Increase of one cent in six-cent gasoline tax (estimated to raise $3,250,000 annually).

Revision of income tax law (estimated to yield about $1,000,- 000 annually).

(A proposed gross income tax levy of one per cent definitely has been abandoned. Certain other tax measures, with smaller yields, also are before the assembly, with the possibility a combination of new taxes might be utilized to pay a sharply pruned budget.)

STATUE TO BE MADE OF BOOK HEROINE

A state education department has gone on record as wanting the book reprinted. Perhaps it will be used in the Georgia school system.

A committee of educators recently decided the statue should be erected in Kingston, Ga., where Mary Goulding, daughter of the author and the book's heroine, is buried.

At the capitol in a glass case there are special copies of "The Young Marooners" with other volumes by this native Georgian. Having been translated into various languages, the Goulding books once enjoyed world-wide popularity. One of the editions in the capitol was published in England; it is reported that Queen Victoria was particularly pleased with the book for her children. Another historic copy was printed in 1863. Although it was the eighth printing, it is known as the first Confederate edition.

But the adventure book is not the only object in the Goulding collection at the capitol. There is his portrait and the crude antique tools with which he fashioned the first sewing machine. The history of the invention was carefully kept in his diary, which is now the valued possession of his grandson, Frank R. Goulding, of 930 Williams Mill road, N. E.

On yellowing paper, the handwriting of the noted minister-author-inventor reveals that the whole idea and worked-out-plan took place between June, 1842, and September, 1845. Although Elias Howe was granted a patent for the invention of the sewing machine in 1846, the southern newspapers definitely gave Goulding the credit. One paper of March 23, 1885, was urging his descendant to exhibit the plans, specimens of sewing and this handwritten description at the New Orleans Exposition.

The invention was inspired during a visit in a friend's home at Eatonton, Ga. On the bed was an elaborate quilt.

"The sight of that bed quilt impressed me almost painfully with the thought of the labor it had caused," he wrote. "At the same moment the question arose, 'Can not sewing be done by machinery?' and the answer came as quickly, 'It can.' Anything can be done by machinery which requires only the action of a given power in a given direction for a given time."

Working on the plan that sewing is to be weaving, "for weaving is to me only a sewing together"—the machine was completed and used in his own household at Roswell.

But the Georgian's invention was not to reach Washington in time to be the first sewing machine patented. The way was long and the road was rough. The stagecoach in which Goulding was journeying overturned as it tried to ford a swollen stream. The newly invented machine spilled out and was ruined.

Francis Robert Goulding was born September 26, 1810, near Midway, the son of the first Georgia-born Presbyterian minister and founder of the old Columbia Seminary, now located at Decatur. In 1830, Francis R. Goulding was graduated from the University of Georgia, entered Columbia Theological Seminary where he received his degree in divinity three years later. His first pastorate was at Walterboro, S. C., from which he was called to fill the pulpits in Macon, Washington, Waynesboro and Eatonton, Ga.

Married to Mary Howard, of Savannah, Goulding had six children for whose entertainment and instruction Dr. Goulding began "The Young Marooners" in 1847. Although the children in the book are of the "Gordon" family, apparently mythical, the characters were his own children.

Joel Chandler Harris, famous author of children's stories, once wrote of "The Young Marooners": "It has survived its own success and become a classic." The real truth of this statement is being proved today in the deep interest revived by educators.

AFL PEACE LEADER REFUSES TO SERVE

AFL's Houston, Texas, convention last October. He threatened to lead his own union out of the federation unless it authorized new peace overtures.

It was learned that Green, himself, does not plan to serve on the committee in place of Tobin. The latter's refusal to serve coincided with revelations that some AFL unions are opposed to the Wagner act amendments sponsored by Senator David L. Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, at the request of Green.

Federal Licensing of Unions Meets Approval of Public

75 Per Cent Want Some Control Exercised by Government.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Two cross-section surveys of national sentiment just completed by the American Institute indicate that the dominant pull of public opinion today is much more toward increasing federal control over labor unions than toward increasing federal control over business corporations.

With the government becoming more and more of a factor in the economic life of the nation, the majority of voters apparently believe, according to the survey, that if business is subject to government supervision, labor unions should not be given a free rein. The expression of sentiment was on the issue of federal licensing. Senators Borah and O'Mahoney have for many months advocated a law requiring corporations doing interstate business to take out a license with the federal government. The Institute put the issue to a vote in its survey and, for comparison, tested sentiment on licensing labor unions as well.

The results show that whereas a small majority favor corporation licenses, an overwhelming majority favor licenses for labor unions. The first question asked: "Do you think all companies doing business in more than one state should be required to get a license from the United States government?"

Yes 57% No 43%

The second question asked: "Do you think every labor union should be required to take out a license from the federal government?"

The vote was: Yes 75% No 25%

The predominant comment of voters on this issue was that "licensing would enable the government to regulate unions more effectively."

A contrast was found between the opinions of upper and lower income groups on licensing corporations. Almost two-thirds of voters in the upper income group voted against corporations licensing, whereas more than two-thirds in the lower income group voted for it.

But, significantly, no such contrast was found in the vote on licensing labor unions. This proposal was approved by almost identical majorities in all income groups—an indication of how widespread sentiment is for some sort of labor union control.

lation be attached to the new general transportation bill the committee is now considering.

Directing the attack against existing rate differentials, Representative Ramspeck, as chairman of the house bloc, presented three other witnesses today in addition to Hart. They were E. L. Kelly, of the South Dakota public utilities commission; E. O. Thompson, of the Texas railroad commission, and C. B. Bee, Oklahoma rate expert.

Other hearings of a similar nature were continued before a special subcommittee of the senate interstate commerce body, in charge of Senator Lister Hill, of Alabama, who joined with Ramspeck in offering a bill at the beginning of the session to wipe out existing rate differentials, long a source of complaint by southern shippers. Witnesses before the senate subcommittee included J. C. Murray, Arkansas rate expert, who testified before the house group yesterday; W. N. Klingensmith, traffic manager of the Tulsa, Okla., Chamber of Commerce; I. S. Bentley, who holds a corresponding position with the Oklahoma city chamber, and Dr. John H. Goff, chief of the TVA transportation division, together with two representatives of the Southern States Industrial Council, C. E. Widell and S. F. Claybough, both of Nashville, Tenn.

All of the witnesses at the house committee hearings today attacked the rate differentials. Tomorrow's session will be given over to opponents, Representative Ramspeck having completed his testimony in support of the legislation. The senate committee, which is hearing witnesses on both sides, recessed today until Friday.

An important point brought out by the hearings, the Georgia congressman emphasized, was that present rates not only retard industrial development in the south and west, but tend to keep those sections engaged in agriculture and furnishing raw materials only.

Armed with booklets and maps showing the various rate zones of the country, Hart, the Atlanta expert, traced the history of discriminating rates and told the committee there was no justification for their existence.

"When you fix the price of shipping in internal commerce, you profoundly affect economic balance as between regions, as between producers and consumers, as between competitors in business," he declared.

"Whether or not the existing interregional rate structure, particularly on commodities produced in the south and marketed in official territory in competition with like producers located in that section, meet the requirements of the present law, I am not prepared to argue at this time, but do say that the situation in this respect, with which I have only dealt in a general way, violates every rule of fairness, and, naturally, militates against a national system of rail transportation.

Cites Precedents. "The congress has legislated to co-ordinate railroads, thus showing a further acceptance of the national purpose of transportation. The supreme court has emphasized this idea in holding that 'commerce is a unit and does not regard state lines'.

"Much less, under the constitution, may sectional lines be regarded our economic, as well as our political, union is indestructible; and regulation of the commerce which makes that union effective for the general public interests cannot be nullified by any state or section or carrier.

"This national purpose includes protection not alone of carriers and manufacturers. Jobbers and others are entitled to buy from all parts of the country, so that they will not be completely under the dictation of one section. Consumers benefit in this competition of localities and thereby obtain their needs at a lower and more reasonable cost.

"A common good demands equality among shippers in transportation; and, if the commission is for any reason prohibited by law from extending this full equality to all shippers, the law should be corrected. Shippers should know the special provisions of law, if any, that deter the commission from making rates which will accord the competing shippers just equality in transportation charges.

"Rate making is a legislative act, and congress has the power to establish by statute whatever rates it pleases. But we would caution against any revolutionary action by it that would, so to speak, cause a 'frozen' rate structure. We rather think that mature consideration of this problem is necessary."

ASSEMBLY SEEKS QUICK I. C. C. ACTION

Georgia's general assembly yesterday called upon the Interstate Commerce Commission to put into effect immediately a downward revision of railroad freight rates which will eliminate discriminations against southern shippers.

The senate and house of representatives unanimously adopted identical resolutions calling for I. C. C. action on the recommendations of a commission of experts, which have conducted long hearings into the national freight rate structure.

Senator Adie Durden, of Albany, the senate floor leader, sponsored the resolution in the senate while in the house the measure was handled by Representative Henderson Lanham, of Floyd county.

INCOME TAX HELPS

Are you tearing your hair trying to figure out whether you can take a credit for helping to support grandma? Or the difference between an earned income credit, and a surtax net income? Or whether you got any taxable interest on government obligations? And did you have a net short-term gain from the sale or exchange of capital assets last year? And if not, why not? Is that loan you made to Brother John last year and which he hasn't paid, deductible as a bad debt? And how much gasoline taxes can you deduct? If you need help in figuring out your income tax return this year, our Service Bureau's bulletin on Federal Income Tax will probably solve many of these problems for you, and prevent you from cheating Uncle Sam or cheating yourself. Expense of British Army Estimated at $805,665,000

Greatest Defense Program in Peacetime History Laid Before Commons.

LONDON, March 1.—(P)—Army estimates of 161,133,000 pounds ($805,665,000) for the 1939-40 fiscal year were laid before the house of commons today to round out the greatest defense program in Great Britain's peacetime history.

The estimates sent the annual budget past the 1,000,000,000 pounds ($5,000,000,000) mark for the first time since the World War.

Baron Portal has accepted chairmanship of a committee to establish "crisis evacuation camps in England and Wales."

The army estimates would increase the empire's armed manpower to 563,700. Regular and territorial army increases add 79,857 to last year's total and the home army would be 15,700 men greater.

The estimates were submitted one day after naval estimates of 153,666,681 pounds ($768,333,405). Also submitted today were new civil estimates for non-defense expenditures of $34,596,01 pounds ($2,672,980,405).

The total budget was likely to reach 1,114,000,000 pounds ($5,570,000,000), of which 580,000,000 pounds ($2,900,000,000) would be for defense.

Air force estimates were expected to be 209,000,000 pounds ($1,045,000,000), a new peacetime high.

Sir John said tests showed that steel shelters provided by the government for erection in private yards offered adequate protection against air bomb splinters.

Laborite Herbert Morrison termed it a "public scandal" that the government had delayed construction of deep bomb-proof shelters.

To this the minister asserted that Barcelona's war experience "afforded no guide to what should be done in this country." He explained that Barcelona, with wider streets and a harder sub-soil, differed from London.

He added that "the experience of Valencia" confirmed the government's policy that the population should be dispersed as protection from air raids.

MARQUIS OF ZETLAND APPEALS TO HITLER. LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 1.—(P)—The Marquis of Zetland, secretary of state for India, appealed to Germany tonight to "bring this insane race in armaments to an end" and meet Britain at a conference table.

He told the chamber of commerce here that Germany "wants equality."

"Well," he continued, "so do we. She will find us more than willing to discuss with her at the conference table all such matters as are of common concern to our respective countries."

"What she will not find us prepared to do is to meet her with our hands tied behind our back while she holds a loaded pistol in her hand."

F. D. R. OFFERS SHIP FOR SAITO'S ASHES. Roosevelt Pays Unprecedented Honor to Ex-Envoy of Tokyo.

MIAMI, Fla., March 1.—(P)—President Roosevelt cast aside diplomatic differences with Japan for the time being today and ordered a heavy cruiser prepared to take the ashes of Hiroshi Saito, former Japanese ambassador to the United States, back to the Far East.

Officials in Washington, where the popular little diplomat died last Sunday, said this would be the first time such honors had been paid a former ambassador, although it was the custom when incumbent foreign envoys died at their posts.

The body of Saito, who died at the age of 52 after an illness of six months, has been cremated. One of the most popular ambassadors ever to serve in Washington, the frail little diplomat weathered one of the greatest crises in Japanese-American relations—the Panay incident—and survived many another warm diplomatic exchange before and since over Japanese activities in China.

3 ALABAMA RIVERS NEAR DANGER STAGE. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 1.—(P)—Flood warnings were issued today to inhabitants of lowlands along three of Alabama's rivers, swelled to the danger stage by heavy February rains.

The Tombigbee and Warrior rivers, along the west Alabama border, have inundated low areas for many miles. A 23-foot crest, one foot above the danger line, was predicted on the Coosa river tomorrow at Gadsden.

SOUTH HELD HOPE FOR INVESTMENTS

Tire Company President Says Section Has the Three Essentials.

The south is rapidly becoming the most attractive section of the United States for investments, William O'Neil, president of the General Tire & Rubber Company, declared here yesterday. He arrived yesterday morning for a two-day business conference.

"Businessmen with funds to invest are coming to realize that the south is the only section of the country left with the three essentials for good investment—sympathetic legislators, undeveloped resources, and a dependable supply of labor," he said.

Recovery Optimism. One of the United States' most widely informed business executives, O'Neil was optimistic about recovery.

"During my extensive travels lately I have found a general upward trend in business conditions," he said. "And it has been my observation that the south is leading this trend."

A fallacy given wide credence impeding recovery, according to O'Neil, is that legislation is an economic cure-all.
"Too many persons in public office at present are of the belief that by passing a law, anything can be made to happen," he said. "You can make businessmen do things by passing laws, but you cannot change the course of trends, except in a very small way, by legislation."
The present practice of taxing for regulation instead of revenue purposes will also have to be corrected, according to O'Neil.

NEW CHAMBER AIDE. SAVANNAH, Ga., March 1.—(P)—The Chamber of Commerce has obtained a new executive head who will take charge April 1. He is Walter R. Brown, of Albany, for the past three and a half years secretary of the Albany Chamber of Commerce.

HAS BABY A NASTY COLD?

Relieve the Misery As Most Mothers Do
Rub baby's back, chest, and throat with Vicks VapoRub and tuck him deep into bed. What a comfort to know that VapoRub goes to work right away to relieve the misery of his cold without "dosing"—without risk of stomach upsets. And what a comfort to know that long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub will still be working—two ways at once—direct through the skin like a poultice, and direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors. You'll find that often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

GEORGIA MUST GROW COTTON CHEAPER

Growing cotton cheaper is almost synonymous, so far as the Georgia farmer is concerned, with growing more and better cotton per acre. Both appear to be the only means available to him if he would recover and hold—some of the ground lost to other cotton growing sections of the world.

No man in the nation has taken a more thorough-economic trimming during the past 25 to 30 years than the Georgia cotton grower. He once grew close to 3,000,000 bales. A crop of 1,000,000 bales is now considered large. Year after year he received upward of $200,000,000 annually for the season's work. Last year he was paid a comparative pittance—some $35,300,000—the smallest amount ever received for an entire crop.

This tremendous shrinkage in income, despite all the talk of low prices, cannot be traced directly to that cause. The price was higher in 1938, and is now, than during some of the years when the farmer's income was 6 to 7 times as great. The loss is attributable to the disheartening falling off of yield and quality, year in and year out, and the seeming inability to stem the flow of production to other sections.

It is doubtful if one cotton grower out of 300 in the state knows even approximately what it costs him, per pound, to produce his crop. Yet, upon this very premise rests success or failure, for he must now grow his cotton for a highly competitive market at a low cost per pound or continue in the ever downward economic spiral until he passes completely out of the cotton picture.

When the automobile manufacturers found their sales slipping a few years ago they knew there was only one remedy. Reduce the cost of production per unit by producing more units per square foot of plant space. This economic principle must be applied to cotton production. More pounds must be grown per acre and, in consequence, at less average cost per pound.

A program of more intensive cotton production in Georgia fits in perfectly with diversification. It requires no more land, in fact, less land, to produce better and more cotton by the use of scientific methods of production. More acres would, therefore, be available for other crops, livestock and dairying—all of which are essential to a completely rounded out agricultural program.

As an indication of what can be accomplished, consider the case of H. E. McMath, a farmer near Americus, Ga. Last year he produced 164 bales of cotton on 158 acres. Within a stone's throw of the McMath farm, planters, following the old slovenly methods of production, couldn't make their seed. The average yield in two so-called cotton counties, to cite other examples, was only 78 and 84 pounds of seed cotton per acre!

The United States government is urging more cotton per acre. It stands, financially, behind the farmers who produce more per acre. Every facility of the State Department of Agriculture is available, not only to show how to increase the yield, but how to improve the quality.

One of the first essentials to a successful program of more cotton per acre is, of course, elimination of the boll weevil. This pest, unless destroyed, will cost the farmers of Georgia over $22,000,000 in 1939—applying last year's rate of destruction to this year's acreage allotment.

Now is the time for the farmer to make his plans to produce the greatest yield of cotton per acre in the history of the state. Couple this with diversification and there will be a noticeable improvement in his economic status in the fall.

AN INDEPENDENT UKRAINE?

The Ukraine doesn't mean a great deal to the average citizen of the United States. It is too far removed, both geographically and politically, from things American to be regarded as a "local" problem. But, on the other side of the Atlantic, it is likely to loom in importance in the near future—for it is there the "bad men" of Europe have set the fuse for an early explosion. That is, unless the excitable Mussolini jumps the time piece—which now appears improbable—thereby revising the plans.

Ukraine is one of the richest lands in the world. This accounts for the present urgent demand, principally from Germany, for its "independence." It is located, for the most part, in southwestern Russia, where 37,000,000 of its population reside. But Poland also would be called upon to contribute 7,500,000 of its people, Rumania 1,300,000 and eastern Czechoslovakia 830,000, for the creation of this "independent" nation.

It logically may be presumed, however, that Soviet Russia and the other nations concerned will not suddenly turn idealistic and voluntarily set these millions free to live forever happily, with other minority peoples, under the protection of the German swastika.

The Ukraine, it will be remembered, was proclaimed a republic in 1918. A parliament was set up at Kiev. It was recognized as a nation by Germany, Poland, France, Great Britain and some others, but not by the United States. The civil war in Russia, however, had not ended at the time. Eventually the Bolsheviks gained the upper hand and the greater part of the Ukraine went back as a part of Russia.

Advocates of the latest movement for independence point out that the Ukrainians have never been thoroughly Bolshevized; that some 5,000 patriots were shot by the Russian authorities during 1937 alone. This is horrible, cruel and revolting, to say the least. But are those thousands of men and women, as well as children, who have died in German concentration camps from starvation and brutality, any the less dead because they were not mowed down by Nazi machine guns?

The American people should not be concerned in this program to dismember three or four nations of central Europe. But many of the 700,000 Ukrainians, who have taken advantage of a refuge in the United States, ably assisted by a goodly number of Nazis, Fascists, White Russians and other advocates of "better government," seem altogether willing to concern themselves, as well as their adopted country, in substituting their brand of freedom in the Ukraine.

Their leaders have already departed from American shores. And the propaganda has been started to launch this ostensible crusade for Ukrainian independence, but what, to all intents and purposes actually amounts to taking up the sword in the interest of one, Adolf Hitler.

When the time arrives to set the Ukrainian people free—the coming of spring seems to be Der Fuehrer's notion of the proper season to bring the glad tidings—it will be a Ukrainian problem, not an American. The Ukrainians must decide whether they "prefer" living under the protection of the swastika or continue buckling-down under the hammer and sickle.

A LEGITIMATE CLAIM

Pending before the senate is a treaty that should be approved without further delay, one necessary for the maintenance of maximum security of the Panama Canal and to redeem national honor.

For the last five years the Republic of Panama has refused to accept a $250,000 United States Treasury check sent by this government as the annual payment under the treaty of 1903 involving the Canal Zone. The treaty was based upon payment in gold dollars and Panama has insisted upon payment in this form, which would be equivalent to about $430,000 in the present devalued currency.

Last year the foreign relations committee of the senate approved a new treaty which would meet Panama's claims by providing annual payments of $430,000. It did not receive the consideration of the senate as a whole because of lack of time.

Friendly relations with the Panamanian republic have not been particularly endangered by these five years of impasse, but it is easy to contemplate that this eventually will be presented if the situation is allowed to drift without affirmative action by the United States. The republic has a legitimate claim and nothing is to be gained by this country in refusing to meet a just debt.

Editorial of the Day

THE CASE OF GUAM
(From The Charlotte Observer.)

Proposed improvement of the government's naval base at Guam has stirred up the natives, those of this country and especially those in official control of the government of Japan.

Although naval officers contend that establishment of an air and submarine base there would simplify the defense of Hawaii, they concede that its main purpose would be to discourage an attack upon the Philippines and to facilitate protection of other American interests in the Far East.

Opponents of the project contend, on the other hand, that fortification of Guam, which the present proposal seems to anticipate, would constitute a needless affront to Japan, and that possession of such an exposed base, even though it were heavily fortified, might be more of a liability than an asset.

They assert, moreover, that if the United States is to give up responsibility for defense of the Philippines after their attainment of independence in 1946, other interests in the Orient are not of sufficient importance to warrant maintenance of a base at Guam.

It is clear that the Guam proposal concerns large questions of national policy going beyond mere strategic considerations.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

NO EXCITEMENT OVER BYRNES BILL

WASHINGTON, March 1.—It is the hearings of the special senate committee on unemployment and relief are far from exciting. Few except casual tourists penetrate the large, gloomy chamber in the senate office building which the committee has borrowed for its work. Government officials succeed one another on the witness stand, to read monotonous statements or to reel off difficult statistics. And on the rostrum the senators betray their interest in the proceedings only by an occasional question.

This state of affairs is a major mystery, for the committee is considering the bill by which Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, hopes to reorganize the entire relief and social security setup. It may well prove to be the most important item of legislation now before congress. And the astute Byrnes has managed things so well that, barring unforeseen developments, the senate seems certain to accept his bill.

Now that hearings are in progress, and Byrnes' intentions are fully revealed, it's more than clear that his plan's implications are revolutionary. In effect, the plan prepares the way for the federal government to get out of the relief business. That this would be the aim of the Byrnes plan was predicted here. It may now be well to analyze the plan in detail.

It has two major features. By the first, the social security system is revised and improved, and the unemployment benefit system is reorganized and merged with the federal employment service. And then, by the second, all the different federal public works agencies, including the huge WPA with its work relief, are merged in a new department of public works.

On the surface, the second proposal may seem no more controversial than the first, which merely remedies obvious mistakes. But it should be remembered that the new department's activities are limited to public works, leaving no place for WPA activities—arts projects, sewing projects, white-collar projects and the like—employing a total of about 500,000 relievers. Presumably these relievers will be left behind in a sort of rummage agency, where they will be at the mercy of a congress which calls arts projects "boondoggling" and heartily dislikes them.

Then great numbers of WPA clients are actually unemployed, as the WPA hastens to point out when explaining its slow job turnover. For these Senator Byrnes has a subsidiary plan by which the federal government will match state contributions to take care of all persons not eligible for social security, but incapacitated for work. He expects it will also remove 500,000 or more cases from the rolls. Thus, the WPA division of the public works department will be 1,000,000 cases smaller than the present WPA.

And finally, when the transfer of WPA is effected, it will be in a department of "public works," not of relief. The President's successive appeals to congress for immense WPA appropriations have been bolstered by the "relief" argument. With this gone, it will be easier for congressional economizers to make cuts they think necessary.

VANISHING TRICK It must be explained that the eventual Byrnes objective is both perfectly humane and perfectly reasonable. He envisages a three-ply state and federal setup. Under it, old people, dependent children, the permanently disabled and the temporarily jobless will be cared for by benefit payments; while cases of prolonged unemployment receive direct relief from the states, and the proposed public works department serves as a sort of donkey engine on the economic system, going into action when a depression threatens. And the only major changes entailed are the abandonment of the "work relief" principle and the relegation of actual relief to the states. Experts believe that, if Byrnes attains his objective, the federal government may be forced to assume responsibility for direct relief. But otherwise they regard it as practicable.

The question remains, however, why have not the cohorts of the White House flown to the attack? Senator Byrnes has accused his plan with the President who has signified no sharp opposition. The WPA has not opened its mouth, and even the Workers' Alliance has been silent. Yet, if Byrnes gets his bill through without a big fight, he will have achieved something like doing the Indian vanishing trick with an elephant as the subject.

Dr. Gallup
And His Anecdote.

Having spent the better part of an hour seeking an idea for this column today, and having been obsessed with one thought, that, though it seems somewhat unsuitable, yet persists in excluding others, it may be best to approach that thought via an anecdote. Dr. George Gallup told in the course of his clever speech before the Chamber of Commerce last Friday night.

The worthy president of the American Institute of Public Opinion, discussing the methods and the results of his famous polls of opinion in the United States, said that in his younger days he had felt a great deal for the intelligence of the average American voter. He had, he said, adopted as his own the somewhat common sophomoric view that if a majority of the people favored a given course of action, or theory, that was prima facie evidence the thing was wrong.

But, said he, his experience in testing public opinion had changed his view. He now believes that, while individual voters may frequently be somewhat un-informed and dumb, at the average works out pretty well. He illustrated with anecdote about a college professor and his class.

How Long Is a Line?

This professor, Dr. Gallup said, one morning drew a straight line with chalk upon his blackboard. He made that line exactly 5 feet and 6 inches in length. Then, when his class assembled in their proper places, he asked each one—it was a large class, more than a hundred—to look at the line and estimate its length, just by the eye.

Of the entire class not one guessed the true length. But adding up all the guesses and dividing by those present, the average was exactly correct—5 feet and 6 inches.

Which should renew your confidence in the ultimate solving of our problems by the democratic processes.

The Reason, From Personal Standpoint.
I needed the reassurance to be found in that anecdote, this morning. For the mail today seemed to bring forth an exceptionally large proportion of the replies of communication that threaten to shake your faith in the understanding of the people.

One letter, for instance, was concerned with the subject of freedom of religion in this country. The writer said he believed completely in freedom of religion and in separation of church and state. Therefore, (believe it or not) he would bar members of a certain denomination from public office in the United States!

Three letters gave statistics regarding a certain condition, or situation, of affairs in Georgia. Each of the three writers claimed to be doing a service in furnishing the "true" picture. But none of the three sets of figures agreed with the other two. And I happen to know that the truth is quite widely different from all three!

Then there was the letter from the fellow who would solve all our problems by running the government money printing presses overtime. He wants to give every one a hundred dollars or so in paper currency every week. Overlooking entirely the fact that such a hundred dollars wouldn't be worth a plugged nickel in present day money, within a week or two. The only consolation about that letter is that it came from a distant state. So we don't have to impute such foolishness to a Georgian.

But, after all, these are individual instances. They don't denote the real thought of the people. They are the wrong guesses of the single units.

We can still have faith in democracy. For education and knowledge are spreading, and the ability to think through to a conclusion, are spreading in the land.

The average of all of us will, some day, work out correctly. We'll pool our ideas and arrive at 5 foot 6 inches. That day may be slow in coming, but slowness is the democratic way. And it is better to follow the right way, however slow, than step onto some detour of false allure. For only the right way will, in the end, lead to the right goal.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

To Destroy

NEW YORK, March 1.—It is a superstition time to destroy the superstition that because a man or a woman can shriek louder and a little less sharply than most human beings, that person's views on politics, economics or cultural topics deserve reporting in the papers and editorial discussion.

At the moment Beniamino Gigli, the Italian tenor, is maiming print in Italy and here with the observation that "an air of extortion and corruption" prevails in the United States. For that reason, among others, says he, he probably will not return here.

His remarks will earn Gigli certain credits with Mussolini, and their merits need not be argued. He speaks the truth, of course, and it may be said, further, that after long familiarity and patience with official sin the people of this country have only recently heard of yet more loathsome and arrogant abuse of trust in the federal courts and in the local affairs of many cities.

For the first time in the nation's history Americans are beginning to toy with idea of capital punishment for thieves judges and for the almost-giving, church-going, honest, est-John type of political officials whose careers are more dangerous to the people's liberties than Communist and Nazi-Bolshevik combined.

Comes With Poor Grace

To be sure, such a criticism of this country comes with poor grace from a native and citizen of Italy, considering not only that Italy has been the main source from which we learned the arts of extortion and corruption but considering also the character of the Fascist government itself.

However, the point to be considered is whether the fact of his singing an operatic singer imparts special value to Gigli's views on matters beyond the opera. Obviously, it does not. As a singer he speaks with no more prestige on non-artistic topics than any chestnut vender or apple shiner under the sun.

Singing, it should be kept in mind, is the lowest and most vulgar of the arts. Its masters, as a class, are the jealous, silly, childish, vain, petulant, grossly ill-mannered. Any stranger who has ventured around behind during the squawking of an opera must always remember the impression made upon him by the chorus of gurgling, barking, spitting and other disgusting sounds emitted by the artists in preparation for their moments on the stage.

Know Little Beyond Roles

They know little beyond the roles, which they must learn as children learn Christmas recitations, and they are so overbearing in their own opinion that they are doing rotten work and know it themselves they sometimes stomp off, putting and sulking like brats, if a customer happens to yawn. Actors are more polite and inordinately more game under conditions of distress.

The ill manners and poor sportsmanship of operatic people probably can be traced to the fact that opera is native to a land which is notorious for its impudence, inconsistency and meanness in all its relations with other nations—political, artistic and athletic.

Singing, of course, should be women's business. Feminine voices and the voices of little boys are light and bird-like and suited to the art. It is not a natural or happy art for males, and in no case, except the creative art, except to the extent that one singer emits a special gurgle, grunt, gasp or snuffle and calls that an original creation. Otherwise the singer only steps out and brays, moos or yowls the music which has been written down for him by the composer, who, of course, is a creative worker if not always necessarily an artist. The singer's function can be likened to that of a train-caller in the Northwestern station in Chicago.

More Reverence Over Here

Operatic singers always have enjoyed more reverence or awe in the United States than they command in European countries, because few of us know anything about opera, and even our most intelligent press does not bother to challenge this harmless sentiment. In Italy if an opera singer is loud—and they often are—the customers will belt them with hunk of sausage and even knives and chairs, Italian manners and chivalry being, as suggested before, sharply inferior to the American and Italian tolerance respectively. Actually, Americans wouldn't be likely to know whether a singer was good or bad and would prefer him fairly plump, because sour notes are the sound of native music which Americans like, such as jazz and swing.

Gigli may return if he likes, but it is hoped that if he does so he will not be quoted on any other topic than his knack, or, if you want to be generous, his art, of bawling and flouncing about a platform with lace on his cuffs and paint on his face, and bawling high tenor at that.

Chinese Actors.

Chinese stage stars, driven to Honolulu by the Oriental war, now face criticism because they are too popular with Honolulu audiences. A striking editorial in the Hawaii Chinese Journal claimed that four members of a company now performing here received in two months gifts totaling $6,000.

This sum, the paper said, would be equal to $48,000 in Cantonese money and would be "sufficient to feed, clothe and house 4,000 Chinese refugees for one year." The newspaper protested because donations from the Chinese community to the China relief fund totaled "less than $5,000 during the year."

Dogs Netted $80.

The doggies did their stuff at Council Bluffs' (Iowa) "dog catcher's ball," an annual event sponsored by Poundmaster Chris Christensen to raise funds to help buy dog licenses for worthy boys and girls unable to purchase them for their pets. The event netted $80.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

NEVER A DULL MOMENT The taxpayers of Georgia cannot complain of being bored. Those whose chief fear was of a gross income tax may rest in peace. Those who seek or seek to avoid other forms of taxation most assuredly are kept on the alert.

The huge budget adopted by the house sitting as a committee was put on the table. That had been expected. Then came Speaker Roy Harris calling on the house to join him in "political suicide" by voting a sales tax.

Sentiment in the house seems to favor a sales tax. Many of the members, however, are committed against such a tax. No sooner had the ways and means committee voted out favorably a 3 per cent sales tax than a minority report was made and the clans began to gather. It may safely be said that until the wee hours of this morning there were meetings of this bloc and that, seeking to pass or defeat the bill when it appears before the house today.

There are those still fighting for nuisance taxes and those who want a most awful mixture of the sales tax and the nuisance tax.

Meanwhile the state institutions wait. Work has halted at Milledgeville. The school teachers will soon face a payless month. The institutions of the state are gravely concerned. Those who look to the state for living are the most concerned. Those responsible for the insane are concerned; the blind, the crippled and the old also are concerned.

The various pressures are being applied. It is not, at all times, pleasant to be a representative. But there is little chance to be bored.

THE FOREST OR THE TREES Any session of the legislature appears momentous while in progress. When the sessions are done they do not always appear to have been momentous. It is a question of being able to see the forest for the trees.

This session does appear momentous. It can, without doubt, set the state back 20 years or deliver it a blow from which it cannot well recover. This step would be one which retarded education and all services tending to develop the state's resources, physical and human. It will be most unfortunate if the result of this legislative session would be one which brought to the Governor's office in 1940 a governor selected merely on the basis of a protest and not on the basis of ability and worthiness.

The outlook is not all discouraging. A start has been made toward making the people more conscious of government. The people are tax-conscious but have not studied the result of taxation. They need a system which would enable the taxpayers to see where each tax dollar goes. If such a system were in vogue there very probably would be little objection to the form of taxation. Therefore the economy measures proposed may have a beneficial result even if they were not true economy but mere abolishing of state services, such as the rural libraries, reducing the health and school expenses by reducing services. The legislatures of the future, if this one misses it, will be sure to pass legislation which will bring about a more efficient government. True economy lies not in reducing services but in reducing the overhead through efficient management. The civil service bill is defeated because the legislature rarely wishes to perpetuate any one governor's appointments in office under civil service protection.

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR In addition to the Messrs.

Hugh Howell, who already has announced for governor in 1940, and Eugene Talmadge, who will announce, there seem to be many other potential candidates in the legislature.

Indeed, it is fair enough to say this is one factor which delays and impedes legislative progress. There are three or four who are seeking to woo each faction, or at least not to offend any one faction.

Then, there is the yearning to make speeches and to break into the public prints. Indeed, the news photographers insist that all they have to do to bring on an impassioned plea is to stick a flash bulb into the reflector. They declare that no speaker really begins to warm up until the cameras are loaded and the bulbs in place.

At any rate, the legislature includes several who are feeling the call to serve the state as governor. The Messrs. Howell and Talmadge may not have many fellow candidates, but just now the woods are full.

Governor E. D. Rivers is going out of office. He cannot run again. So, the tendency is to forget all about him and make as much hay as possible. Which is politics. The candidates are beginning to look out for themselves. It is quite possible that the name of the next governor has not yet appeared in print as a candidate.

It Isn't Fair To Condemn the Cook If You Didn't Taste The Broth

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The one universal amusement of mankind, enjoyed by both sexes and all ages, is that of discussing and judging the neighbors. At best it is an impudence, for we never know what we are talking about. If many witnesses are required to establish a fact in court, we aren't likely to judge fairly when we have no evidence at all that a court would accept.

What is true of ordinary judgments is doubly true of our officious attempts to fix the blame when a husband and wife find life together unbearable. For in this case, unless both are vulgar and without self-respect, the evidence is deliberately hidden.

The best kept of all secrets is domestic unhappiness. To confess "family trouble" is to confess failure, and pride convicts with shame to hide every indication of it from the world. Even those who hate one another will co-operate to keep their hate a secret.

How

DANGER OF FLOODS WILL NOT DEEPEN WITH RAINS TODAY

Single Rainless Day Helps State as Rivers
Pour Load Toward Sea;
Lowlands Are Inundated

Today's occasional rains will not swell Georgia's streams further, weather officials declared last night.

Cloudy weather and showers are forecast for central and south Georgia after a rainless day which considerably modified threats in river valleys. The weather in Atlanta will be somewhat cooler, with a minimum of 36 degrees expected. Yesterday's high and low readings were 53 and 39.

Rivers in central Georgia reached their crests yesterday, while farmers surveyed swampy fields and ruined terraces to check the damage of the heavy rains, and their effect on spring planting operations.

George W. Mindling, Atlanta weather observer, said the Flint at Albany rose two and a half feet to 21.6, more than a foot above flood stage, but a few inches below the expected crest. The city is protected by levees, but low-lying farms below it were expected to be inundated.

West Point on the Chattahoochee reported 17.5, a rise of 4.8 feet. The Columbus report was 30 feet, and "slowly rising." The flood stage there is 34 feet. At Eufula, Ala., the river rose 13.8 feet to 39, a foot below flood stage. Unexpectedly heavy rains south of Columbus had sent the Apalachicola to 16 feet at River Junction, and a stage of 20 feet was expected at Blountstown.

GOOD MORNING

EUROPE TODAY.

Ben Ames, United Press European correspondent, now on a lecture tour throughout the United States, spoke at the Atlanta Kiwanis Club Tuesday on the Europe of today, he having spent most of the past several years there as an observer and writer. There was nothing particularly new in what he said, but the very fact that he has been for so long a time in Europe gives weight to his opinions, whether you agree with him or not.

I was impressed with his statement that Hitler will not likely tackle England and France in the near future, but devote his attention to the Balkans with Rumania, perhaps, as the center of his activities, employing his accustomed tactics of economic penetration. Mr. Ames thinks that this procedure may bring Hitler any day into conflict with Russia and the united strength of the Balkan states, the outcome of which he seemed to think might prove quite important.

He enumerated what he regarded as the four mistakes of the democracies, having reference, of course, to England and France, as being: first, the failure to stop Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia; second, the failure to stop Hitler when he armed the Rhineland; third, the failure to stop Hitler when he took the Sudeten; fourth, the failure to stop Hitler and Mussolini in Spain. "And it is now, perhaps, too late for them to attempt to stop Hitler," he added.

"Europe was nearer war in September, 1938, than at any time in the past 20 years," declared Mr. Ames. "Munich can only be regarded as temporarily averting war rather than solving the European situation," he continued. His description of England's state of mind last September paralleled the impressions which most of us have gained in recent months—a thoroughly frightened and well-nigh panicky state of mind. Likewise in France, where they darkened Paris at night and had all the men and boys in uniform. He was severe in his references to England—too severe, I thought.

The Pulse Of the People

SPECIAL SESSION NOT NEEDED—RAMSEY

Editor Constitution: May I thank you for the splendid editorial in The Constitution on "Georgia's Tax Problem?"

The saneness of the view which is taken in this editorial should recommend it to every member of the legislature. The fairness of the discussion of the extended and enlarged program of governmental service should recommend it to every citizen and taxpayer of the state.

I especially appreciate your insistence that no special session of the legislature is needed, and that such measures and appropriations should and can be passed at this session of the legislature during the remaining days that they now have before adjournment.

Speaking for the teachers of the state, I can think of no more damaging situation than the uncertainty which they continually face with reference to the support which they are to get for the service they render. The best prepared teacher cannot do the work in the classroom that he, or she, can do and, therefore, cannot have the best influence upon the training of the children if there is a perpetual feeling of uncertainty as to whether they will be paid at the end of the month, or two months, or three months, as the case may be.

RALPH L. RAMSEY,
Secretary Georgia Education Association.

FULTON TEACHERS TO HONOR WELLS

25th Anniversary of Superintendent in System To Be Feted.

A dinner honoring the twenty-fifth anniversary of Jere A. Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools, in the system will be held at 7 o'clock tomorrow night at the Atlanta Athletic Club, it was announced last night by C. W. O'Rear, president of Fulton County Teachers' Association.

O'Rear will preside. Governor Rivers will be principal speaker. Others scheduled to speak include Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools; Dr. Charles R. Adams, Fulton county commissioner; T. W. Moore, of the board of education, and others.

Legislators, members of the county commission and members of the board of education have been invited.

Wells began his career as a teacher in the system in January, 1914, and was named superintendent in 1923. He has served continuously as head of the schools since his election approximately 16 years ago. Under his leadership, the system has more than doubled in size, having taken in East Point, College Park, Roswell and schools of Milton and old Campbell counties.

TO SPEAK TO MATH GROUP.

AMERICUS, Ga., March 1.—Dr. Eusebia Shuler, member of the Georgia Southwestern College faculty, has been invited to speak to the Mathematical Association of America, southeastern section, which will meet at Citadel College, Charleston, S. C., this month.

His quotation of a Serbian to the effect, "God pity the nation that looks to England for help," seems to me an unwarranted implication of the nation that has stood between democracy and anarchy too many times in European history to be so harshly dismissed. I still question whether Europe would not have been further along with her problems had England listened to Anthony Eden, but I am willing to hopefully wait upon the Chamberlain program. Mr. Ames definitely urged that the United States stay out of European quarrels, with which I fully agree.

STUDENTS AT TECH TAKE TO THE AIR

Test Group Starts Flight Instruction at Candler Field School.

Tech students took to the air yesterday, some of them for the first time, as the government's program to train civilian flyers got under way.

Sponsored by the NYA, students from 13 colleges will receive flight instruction, with a private pilot's license as their ultimate object in a nation-wide program to test feasibility of training thousands of young men to be used if necessary as aviators in the national defense scheme. Others will be added to the course this week.

Groundwork classes have started at the school, while eight or ten of the students will be taken to the municipal airport for flight instruction every week-day. Eight made the trip yesterday.

Eastern Air Schools was awarded the contract to train the students.

PLAN TO ENLARGE BOTANIC GARDENS

Commission Intends Chattahoochee Project To Rank With Best in U. S.

Plans to develop one of the nation's outstanding botanical gardens on the Chattahoochee river were outlined yesterday by the Fulton county commission.

A special citizens committee will administer the project. Troy Chastain, parks committee chairman of the commission, was empowered with County Attorney Walter C. Hendrix to prepare a legislative enabling act.

Along with the botanical gardens, Chastain said that 250 acres will be devoted to park purposes including picnic grounds, playgrounds and other facilities.

"We propose to make the gardens representative of the state, the southeast and even the nation," Chastain said, when a delegation headed by George Wilson, president of the West End Businessmen's Association, appeared to urge early execution of the plans.

"Reckless Driver" Asks That License Be Revoked

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 1. (AP)—J. M. Gentry, state safety commissioner, has revoked the driver's license of a youth who asked that it be taken up because "several complaints have been made against my reckless driving."

Gentry said investigation proved some of the complaints "were more or less justified."

On a trip through North Carolina last week we kept running into the state legislature. That body is adopting the practice this year of meeting in different communities. It had journeyed from its home in Raleigh to Charlotte on the day we were there and was to meet two days later in Wilmington. A mass movement like this is difficult, of course, and expensive, but it seems a very good thing occasionally. It makes legislators put on their company manners. It reminds them that they are being looked at. It gives the people of different parts of the state a sense of belonging to the state's legislative process. It divides up the local income from legislators' purchases of chewing tobacco, whisky, soda water and shaves.

Some legislatures, of course, aren't fit to be seen and do well to remain in the comparatively obscurity of a capital city where familiarity has bred contempt so long that contempt has had time to breed indifference. But North Carolina's legislature is worth looking at. Last week, for example, it proved its title to represent the south's most enlightened and progressive state by using its big Democratic majority to vote indignantly down a shabby but familiar attempt to bully a Republican county out of its right to have Republican officials. Legislatures like that should travel far and wide. It was elected without benefit of poll tax, either.

In Raleigh this writer was introduced to an audience by Jonathan Daniels as "one professional southerner by another." Glad to be in good company on any terms, we were glad also to have our professionalism given Jonathan's discriminating stamp. The stamp covers the mid-way between the moonlight and the magnolia school and the one of rot and ruin.

LOVE COMES LAST

Bart Wires Andy To Come to New York. Nina Wants to Accompany Him

By JULIA ANNE MOORE.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Life has been very kind to Bart, Laura and Andy. Bart, who has been in the city since Andy Cooper came into it, is successful as a writer. He is able to write her fiction and is able to write her fiction. Bart, who has been in the city since Andy Cooper came into it, is successful as a writer. He is able to write her fiction and is able to write her fiction. Bart, who has been in the city since Andy Cooper came into it, is successful as a writer. He is able to write her fiction and is able to write her fiction.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

She wanted to say it. She wanted to say, simply, "Yes, I'll marry you, Bart," and leave it at that, taking his love and giving him loyalty and gratitude and genuine affection with never a word about Andy and never another thought of Dale and Hannah Cromwell.

She wanted to say it and she tried, but it was no good. She thought there was little likelihood that an invitation would come, but it was possible that if she hoped to win Hannah's confidence, she had to be able to say, truthfully, "I'm not in love with Bart, Hannah, and there is no understanding between us."

She said to Bart, "I can't answer now. Not tonight, Bart." "Tell me," Bart said. "Is there some one else?"

She hadn't expected that and she hadn't, until this moment, allowed herself to consider a question she had been dodging for weeks. Was she still in love with Andy?

She said, "Give me time to think, Bart. You're sweet to ask me, but—give me a little time . . . please."

For two days Andy had carried Bartley Ford's message in his pocket. He had meant to tell Nina about it but neglected to do so. Not that he considered it a matter of great importance. Nothing was more natural than that Ford should want him to visit the New York office and on receipt of the wire he had decided to go down early Monday morning and return to Bridgehaven the next evening. The thought that he would probably see Laura while he was there both pleased and troubled him. But what would he say when he saw her. What could he say?

Knowing nothing of the events that left him no decent alternative but to ask Nina to marry him, Laura would almost certainly assume that he had fallen in love with Nina as Laura had meant that he should. And never, as long as he was Nina's husband, could he tell her sister how mistaken she was.

He did not regret what he had done. During the first few days after he and Nina were married, he had suffered moments of agonizing self-pity. But as the weeks wore on and Nina's happiness was a living, glistering thing in her lovely, young face, the pain passed and, with no conscious sense of martyrdom, he virtually dedicated himself to the unflinching maintenance of both her happiness and her physical well-being.

Immediately they were settled in Bridgehaven after her discharge from the hospital, he had secured the services of a very homely but capable and loyal colored servant who relieved Nina of all household duties. In the main, Nina's program was what it had been during her last weeks in Newbury. She had her breakfasts in bed, rose in time to have luncheon with Andy at 1 o'clock, and spent her afternoons as she saw fit. Her evenings were reserved for Andy and though he took her out often enough to keep her entertained, he carefully avoided late hours and needless exertion.

As far as Andy was able to judge, Nina's condition was good, and if there had ever been a return of her old attacks of depression, Andy knew nothing of it.

Riding home from the office Friday evening, Andy made a mental note to show Ford's telegram to Nina immediately on his arrival. But Nina's cheery greeting was followed by an excited recital of neighborhood events and at dinner that he took the folded message from his pocket and passed it across the table.

"You and Beulah," he said, winking at Beulah, "are you going to have a day all to yourselves. Mind you don't get into mischief while I'm away."

Nina read the wire, thoughtfully, and handed it back to him. "How long will you be gone, dear?"

"Not a minute longer than necessary," Andy said. "There's a train out around six in the morning and there's an hourly train service between Bridgehaven and New York."

"Have you any idea why Mr. Ford wants to see you?" Nina asked.

"Nothing in particular, I imagine. As a branch office manager, I should be familiar with the home office personnel. And he probably wants to know what my plans are here."

"Have you been making as much progress as you hoped, Andy?"

"Well, not quite as much as I'd hoped," Andy admitted. "But in view of conditions, I've done well enough. Ford isn't likely to complain on that score."

"Then you think," Nina said, "it's just a routine conference?"

"I'm quite sure it is," Andy said, and looked at her searchingly. "Am I wrong, or is there some crazy little idea behind all these questions?"

Her white teeth flashed. "Nothing very important," she said. "I was just thinking." She was sober then and after a little she said, "Why do you suppose Laurie hasn't come to see us, Andy? I was so sure she'd come when you wired her we were married."

"She's probably working day and night trying to make a go of her job," Andy replied, casually. His eyes were on his plate and he kept them there. "Laurie's that kind. She'll be along one of these days and surprise us, probably."

"As a pause," Nina said, "she's a funny girl. Think of the men she could have, if she wanted. Ford, for example. You can't tell me he took her into his New York office simply because he happened to discover she had brains. I think he fell in love with her the first time he saw her."

Andy's eyes came up to hers, suddenly dropped again. "You may be right. Then again . . ."

He shrugged. "The noncommittal Mr. Cooper," Nina laughed. "Darling, suppose I am right; can you imagine anything funnier than Laurie actually in love with a man?"

Andy set his cup down so hard that Beulah, coming in from the kitchen, winced in anticipation of a cracked saucer. But Nina took no notice. She said, musingly, "I'd rather like to see Laurie. Until now we've never been separated more than a day or two at a time."

"Have you missed her very much?" Andy asked.

"Not terribly. You see, I've had you."

"Which isn't quite the same thing. There's no substitute for some one you love."

She smiled. "But isn't it possible to love some one so completely that you've no love left for any one else?"

"Perhaps," Andy said. And then he said, "Yes, I think it is. In fact, I'm sure it is."

Do you love me that way, Andy?"

He did not try to avoid her eyes. This part of the game was no longer difficult. He said, "What do you think?" smiling.

"That isn't an answer," Nina said. "Do you?"

"Of course I do."

It was easy, really. You just said words, any words the occasion required.

Nina said to Beulah, "Go into the kitchen, please. I want to make love to my husband and he's terribly shy."

Grimacing widely, Beulah left the room. Nina rose, came around the table and sat on Andy's lap. She put her arms around his neck and kissed him. She said, "I wouldn't want to draw another breath if I thought you didn't love me like that." And kissed him again. She said, "You wouldn't want to take me to New York with you Monday, would you, darling?"

So that was what had been kicking around in her mind, Andy thought. If she really wanted to go, he would take her, of course. He had finally decided not like the idea. Alone he could have his way through a few minutes' conversation with Laura and go on his way. If Nina went along, they would be necessarily thrown together for a longer period than he cared to think about.

He said, "There's no reason why you shouldn't go if you think you could amuse yourself while I am at the office with Ford."

"Laurie and I could do something."

"Yes, of course, if she could spare the time. She has a job to look after, you know."

"Surely she could get away one afternoon," Nina urged.

"Perhaps," he kissed her as he was expected to do. "Would you like to drive down? We could get away early."

Nina said she would much prefer going by train. "I haven't been on a train in ages, Andy," she pressed her face to his. "Wouldn't it be nice if we could stay over and go to a show that night?"

Andy looked at her, grinning. "Supposing you tell me just exactly what you've planned and stop all this subtle business."

"But darling, I haven't had a chance to plan anything, have I? I've just learned you were going and I keep thinking of things to make it a sort of holiday. We could call it our honeymoon. We haven't had one and even a day in New York, with a night thrown in, would be something."

There was a note of pathos in her voice and Andy hastily agreed to stay overnight in New York. But the more he thought about it, the more uneasy he grew at the prospect of spending at least part of an afternoon and all of an evening with both Laura and Nina.

His role, obviously, he told himself, was that of the devoted husband, and safely lay in overplaying the part. He could do it. He had to do it—even while he despised himself for it.

Though she and Bart had been out most of the night, Laura went to the office as usual Saturday morning. However, she indulged herself by arriving an hour late and so missed Hannah Cromwell who had waited half an hour for her and then left a note on her desk. Laura read:

FULTON COUNTY'S PLANNING BOARD WORK IS STARTED

Members of Commission Inducted; Traffic, Recreation and Zoning Will Be Under Control.

Co-ordinated improvement of traffic conditions, establishment of parks and recreation centers and a master plan for the development of the county were cited yesterday as objectives of the newly-appointed Fulton County Planning Commission to which four citizen engineers were named.

County commissioners inducted the members and then turned all zoning and planning matters over to them, saying "haphazard development has ended," and "orderly development of the county is assured." Troy Chastain, commission vice chairman, presided.

Members of the board are: Frank H. Neely, executive vice president and secretary of Rich's, Inc., textile engineer; Walter S. McNeal Jr., mechanical engineer, member of the Atlanta city planning commission for nine years; Robert L. MacDougall, technical adviser to the Atlanta Housing Authority and formerly project engineer for Georgia WPA, and Eugene W. O'Brien, editor of the Southern Power Journal. Courtland S. Gilbert was named assistant secretary. The county clerk is secretary, but will not function.

Neely and the other members concurred in an announcement they will co-operate with various agencies to make work of the board as "effective as is possible for the best interests of all."

Led by Neely, the group said it will develop a master plan for the county, based on model plans already in vogue throughout the nation. The county will be divided into logical segments. Some will be reserved for residences only, others will be devoted to residences and apartments, still others will be zoned for business of various kinds, and there will be other sections for light and heavy industrial development.

Ed L. Almond, chairman of the county commission, will make the fifth member of the commission when it sits on zoning matters. All pending petitions were de-

HOPE FOR ECONOMY VANISHED — SOLON

Carmichael Blames Waste in Government on System.

Hope for governmental economy this session has virtually vanished, James V. Carmichael, Cobb county representative and vice chairman of the house investigating committee, told members of the Atlanta Real Estate Board at luncheon yesterday.

He condemned the policy of slashing all departments of the state government 20 per cent. He blamed waste in the government on the system that has grown up over a number of years and not to Governor Rivers and the present administration.

Carmichael recommended that a separate purchasing department be set up for the government as a means of effecting real economy.

SALES LEVY BILL IS SENT TO HOUSE

Board of Education to pay salaries of school teachers; one-third to the Welfare Department to be used solely for old age pensions, dependent children, patients at the Milledgeville State hospital, the school for mental defectives at Gracewood, patients at Alto sanatorium, aid to the blind, the training school for girls at Atlanta, training school for boys at Milledgeville, School for the Deaf and the Academy of the Blind and the remaining one-third to the counties of the state to be distributed in the same manner as the present gasoline tax, except that this should be based on the public road mileage in each county and to be used for maintaining public roads.

Expect $11,000,000. The sales tax bill voted out by the committee does not affect the present state 5-mill ad valorem tax or the "nuisance" taxes which Governor Rivers advocated be removed in broadening the state's tax base.

Sponsors estimated the measure would yield about $11,000,000 annually. It provides for payment of the sales tax by tokens by the consumer and makes failure by a dealer to collect the tax a misdemeanor. It would be collectible by the state on a monthly basis from the retailers.

An amendment to the bill by Representative John Bennett, of Ware county, gives 2 per cent of the total tax collected by a retailer back to him for his services in collecting it for the first year and 3 per cent thereafter.

Representative J. A. Grant, tall and emphatic legislator from Habersham, charged such provision for the retailers was a "stinking shame."

Spike Exemptions. The committee voted down an amendment by Representative Lanier, of Richmond, to exempt cotton bagging and ties, milk, corn meal, flour, sugar, ice, molasses, rolls bread and the like.

During committee debate over the bill a charge was flung by Representative J. McRae Clements, of Wheeler, that a lobby of powerful groups was "behind this sales tax."

These he charged were "the oil people, the coco-cola and bottling industry and the theaters." Clements added that these lobbies were giving parties, entertaining and generally fighting against such bills as would affect them. (One measure now before

SENATE BILL HITS NON-RESIDENTS

House Adoption Would Automatically Discharge '268 State Workers.'

The state senate passed and sent to the house yesterday a proposal to dismiss all appointees of the present administration who had not resided in Georgia three years before appointment.

The author, Senator Roy Thrasher, of Watkinsonville, estimated it would affect "268 employees imported from some other state and employed in most lucrative positions." He said 63 of that number were doctors in the department of public health making about $3,000 a year.

Thrasher's bill originally placed a five-year residence deadline but the state of the republic committee substituted three years. Senator D. I. Dawson, of Hinesville, asked the senate to restore the five-year requirement, but it refused, 25 to 9.

Dawson and Senator Wallace E. Harrell, of Quitman, spoke for the measure. The vote on final passage was 37 to 1.

Senator J. E. Brooks, of Camilla, who cast the opposing vote, warned that others would retaliate and legislate out of jobs numerous Georgians.

period to five days and the regular session to 50 days. At present the session consists of the 10-day organization period and a 60-day session.

Representative Lovett, of Laurens, proposed to reduce the stabilization fund, used to meet emergencies in state financing, to 5 per cent from the 10 per cent now retained from appropriated funds.

The senate passed and sent to the house a bill fixing the state speed limit for passenger automobiles at 55 miles per hour instead of the present 40 miles per hour. By James T. Manning, of Marietta, it also limits trucks between 10,000 and 16,000 pounds to 40 miles per hour and heavier vehicles to 35 miles per hour.

COUNTIES WANT PART OF SALES TAX FUNDS

Opposing diversion of state highway funds, members of the board of managers of the Association of County Commissioners yesterday advocated amendments to the pending sales tax legislation which would replace revenues lost to counties through operation of the homestead and personal property tax exemptions.

Meeting at the Henry Grady hotel, with President A. J. Keith, of Gray, presiding, the commissioners heard several state government department heads discuss problems and urged that specific allocations to counties be provided in the sales tax bill.

CHAIN BILL GIVEN TO SUBCOMMITTEE

Store Executives and Labor Leaders Ask Senate To Defeat It.

By The Associated Press. The senate finance committee yesterday sent to a five-man subcommittee the house-approved proposal to increase the state levy on the larger store chains. The measure to tax chains on a scale sliding from $10 to $750 per store would supplant the present act scaling from $2 to $200 per store.

The committee, composed of Senators Ben Fortson Jr., of Washington, chairman; Everett Millican, of Atlanta; Don B. Howe, of Tallapoosa; John L. Mavity, of Rossville, and Roy Thrasher, of Watkinsonville, was instructed to report within a week.

Representative J. Robert Elliott, of Muscogee, sponsor of the bill, and J. Neely Peacock, of Albany, representing independent merchants, urged committee passage of the "Louisiana-plan" measure.

Labor Opposes. Arrayed against passage were Scott Allen, of Atlanta, president of Rogers chain stores; Vice President B. F. Vinson, of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company; chain; President Charles B. Gramling, of the Georgia Federation of Labor; Dewey L. Johnson, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, and representatives of industry and agriculture.

Elliott said the Louisiana tax plan on which his bill was based had been upheld by the United States supreme court, adding that some of the court's opinion was incorporated verbatim into the measure.

Vinson told the committee his chain was "not Yankee-operated, it's operated by Georgia Crackers." "If our company is a menace to the state it should be put out," he said.

Peacock charged the chain stores sometimes agreed to buy a farmer's entire crop of fruit or vegetables "if he would cut 25 cent under the last year's price, then undersell the farmer who dealt with independent merchants by 25 per cent."

Paid More by Chains. W. O. Britt Jr., of Thomaston, said he would cut 25 per cent under the last year's price, then undersell the farmer who dealt with independent merchants by 25 per cent.

Johnson, head of the Atlanta labor group which recently adopted a resolution opposing the tax, compared it to "Hitler's treatment of the Jews," adding it would be "prostituting the taxing powers of the state."

Gramling said Georgia "needs the chain stores" and asserted the bill would "drive them from the state."

Others speaking included C. Baxter Jones, representing the Bibb Manufacturing Company, of Macon; Henry Williams, of Swift Manufacturing Co., Columbus; George Smith, of the Muscogee Manufacturing Company, of Columbus; W. M. Wellman, of the Oconee Textile Mills, at Whitehall; Roy Parrish, of Adel, watermelon and peanut marketing man; R. F. Sams, Clarkston farmer, and Leo Carter, who said he represented the Georgia Meat Cutters and Clerks affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK

IF YOU DON'T THINK PARKAY tastes better than any other Margarine you've ever tried *

Made by KRAFT

* This is the first time in history, to our knowledge, that any manufacturer of a margarine has backed the taste of his product with a "Double Your Money Back" guarantee.

Kraft makes this amazing offer to get you to try Parkay, their delicious new margarine... A quality product made from carefully selected quality ingredients... in Kraft's own brand-new, air-conditioned plant—spic and span as a model kitchen.

Buy a pound of PARKAY... if you don't like its taste better than the taste of any other margarine you've ever tried, do this: Mail us the empty carton, together with a letter stating why you don't prefer it and giving the name and address of the dealer who sold you Parkay and how much he charged you for it. We will send you double your money back... twice the price you paid for one pound of Parkay margarine, providing the envelope containing your letter and the empty Parkay carton is postmarked on or before midnight, March 25, 1939.

Guarantee limited to one trial pound per customer.

DEWEY CHARGES JURY TAMPERING

Pair Accused in Sequel to Hines' Conviction.

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey brought charges of attempted jury tampering today against Henry J. Ficke and Salvatore di Sabio as a sequel to the conviction last Saturday of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines for policy racket conspiracy.

Meanwhile, Mayor LaGuardia told a group of policemen assembled for promotion exercises that the verdict against the veteran Tammany boss "is just about the last of that kind of control in this city."

Ficke and di Sabio were charged with bribery (unlawful attempt to influence a juror) and an attempt to approach a juror. Both, Dewey's office said, were accused of trying, without success, to "reach" Juror Harry Coon. The details of di Sabio's alleged attempt were not disclosed.

'Stagecoach' Winners Picked

Clipping Owners Will Be Guests at Dinner and Preview Showing of Film at Loew's Grand

Search for old copies of The Constitution, showing its career of service covering nearly 71 years, has revealed that three and sometimes four generations have preserved and valued sections or whole editions of the paper, from the first issue forward.

So many old clippings have been sent in that it would almost be possible to establish a consecutive line—one or more from each year in the life of The Constitution.

Dinner for Winners.

Tonight at 6:30 o'clock 71 readers who have brought in the 71 oldest clippings will meet in the main dining room of the Wincoff hotel for dinner. At 7:50 o'clock the party will go to Loew's Grand for a special preview of the motion picture, "Stagecoach," which opens for a week's showing there. Invited to The Constitution-Loew's Grand "Stagecoach" party tonight are: Mrs. J. Loeb, 977 Ponce de Leon avenue; Mrs. J. L. Samuels, LaGrange; J. C. GET UP NIGHTS?

It's Nature's Danger Signal

This 4-day test must stop it when due to functional kidney disorders or your 25c back. Must help eliminate excess acids and other waste or your 25c back. Must thereby help soothe the irritation that may cause getting up nights, frequent or scanty flow, burning or backache or your 25c back. Say Eukets (25c) to any drugist. Headachy, Breath Bad?

Make This Check-Up!

Just as the ambulance siren tells drivers to look out, so Nature's warnings of headaches, biliousness or bad breath warn us to take care. Those are signs which often point to constipation. Better pay attention to those symptoms of sluggish bowels. To neglect them may lead to a host of constipation's other discomforts: sour stomach, belching, loss of appetite or energy, mental dullness. Help your lazy insides with an all vegetable product that acts gently by simple directions; but cleanses promptly and as completely as harsher laxatives. Spicy, aromatic BLACK-DRAUGHT derives its unusual properties from its principal ingredient. High medical authorities declare this ingredient imparts tone to the sluggish bowel muscles! A little BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water and there you are! In the morning there's an evacuation that's usually thorough; you feel fine again. When Nature warns of constipation, take BLACK-DRAUGHT. Millions of packages used proclaim its unusual merit. 25 to 40 doses; 25c.—(adv.)

These three children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brand, of Edinburg, Ind., were orphaned yesterday when their parents were slain in the bedroom of their farm home. A 30-year-old farm hand has confessed, according to the authorities. The children, who were in an adjoining room at the time of the tragedy, hid in terror for six hours, until Gloria, at the left, ran to a neighbors for help. Judith, aged 3, and Tommy, 10, are shown with Gloria.

CONFESSES SLAYING MAN, WIFE IN HOME

Terrified Girl, 12, Hides 6 Hours in Death House Before Calling Aid.

EDINBURG, Ind., March 1.—(AP)—A 30-year-old farm hand was held tonight as the confessed slayer of Paul Brand and his wife in their farm home near here last midnight—a crime disclosed at dawn today when 12-year-old Gloria Ann Brand, under duress, confessed with two younger children for six hours, ran to a neighbor for help.

The farm hand, Clifford Redmond, was arrested in a poolroom at Ramsey, Ill., and confessed shortly afterward, Ramsey Chief of Police Frank Finning said, that he killed the Brands. He offered no explanation. Chief Finning said, except that he was drunk.

The Brand automobile, in which the slayer was believed to have fled, was found in the business district of Ramsey. Chief Finning said he found in the car the blood-stained barrel of a rifle. The broken stock of the weapon, with which Brand and his wife apparently were beaten after they had been shot, was left behind in the couple's bedroom.

State police said Gloria Brand was assaulted by the slayer, but Redmond denied, Chief Finning said, that he had attacked the girl.

Coroner Walter L. Porteus said tonight Dr. Lon Bice, Edinburg physician, told him an examination of the girl showed she had not been harmed, though an attempt had been made to assault her.

In an autopsy, two .22-caliber long rifle pellets were taken from Brand's body and one from that of Mrs. Brand, the coroner said.

The search for Redmond started, State Police Captain Walter Eckart said, after the hysterical child had told officers she recognized the farm hand as the intruder who shot her parents and then came into her room where she was sleeping with her 3-year-old sister, Judith, and brother, Tommy, 10.

Gloria said the crime occurred

Atlanta's Feminine Population Grooms Spring in Smart Attire

By Sally Forth.

WITH the arrival of March, Dame Fashion casts her magic spell over Atlanta's feminine population as smartly attired belles and matrons step forth wearing bright, colorful spring costumes. Noted for her chic ensembles, Louisa Robert greeted spring's first month clad in a dusty pink and French blue print worn with a becoming dark blue felt hat trimmed with a perky bow of French blue grosgrain ribbon. At her trousseau tea, Rosemary Townley, popular March bride-elect, appeared very "springish" in a soft blue wool sheer over which she wore a fuchsia-colored jacket. Titian-haired Alice Davis was glimpsed on the street corner buying clusters of golden-colored daffodils that harmonized perfectly with her smart black and yellow spring suit. Her jaunty black sailor, trimmed in yellow and green ribbon, is "the top" in spring millinery.

Mrs. S. Russell Bridges looks stunning in her new bright navy wool suit, trimmed with white pique and worn with a bright red flower on the coat lapel. This well-dressed young matron chose modish red lizard accessories to complete her costume, with which she wears a sailor hat of navy blue banded with crimson ribbon. Sally Jenkins was seen between her trips back and forth to Miami wearing a casual brown and white tweed suit with which she dons a canary yellow camel's hair sweater. Sally wears brown accessories with her striking outfit. Dame Fashion whispered that when Mrs. Octavia Riley Boland attended the cinema event, "she was a fashion-plate itself," attired in a navy blue suit with a wide cerise-colored girdle. Her snood hat of cerise topped her golden hair, which the young matron wears in the latest style. Eleanor Spalding resembled a picture of style last Sunday as she entered church wearing a beige wool suit with an unusual emblem applied in red and blue on the jacket pocket. Her navy blue straw chapeau is trimmed in a striped band of red, yellow and blue ribbons. Mrs. William S. Woods, the former Emma Middlebrooks, acquires a jaunty mood when she appears in her spectacular jacket of herringbone blue wool worn over a light blue wool sports dress. She dons an attractive brown sailor and brown accessories for this outfit. Mrs. Ed Smith, the former Laura Madrox, was noted at one of her favorite clubs wearing a maroon-colored dress printed in white. Her navy straw hat featured a filmy veil that accentuates the young matron's exquisite blond beauty.

LISTED among Atlanta's important March visitors are Mrs. Hoyt Gayle, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Sea Island Beach, and Miss Lula Hardeman, of Macon. The pair arrived yesterday to be guests of Mrs. Gayle's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Purse. They motored to Atlanta from Sea Island, where Mrs.

Grayson-Patterson marriage. Another attractive bridesmaid who will appear in the wedding will be Margaret Chenoweth, of Birmingham, a familiar figure in Atlanta, where she has visited frequently. During their visit in Huntsville, the belles will attend the round of prenuptial festivities planned in honor of Juliet and George.

To avoid confusion, Sally informs her readers that the Dorothy Sanford named in this story is not the bride-elect, Dorothy Sanford, who will wed Joseph Horacek in the spring.

ANTICIPATION and excitement are running high among members of the Atlanta Credit Women's Club, for on Friday they will sponsor their first benefit bridge. The club has given a series of affairs since it was formed in April, 1936, and the recent annual bosses' night party and other celebrations were successful events.

Friday evening's affair takes place at Rich's and, though termed a bridge party, it will be optional as to the game played. Players are requested to bring their cards, mah-jong sets, poker chips, or Chinese checkers, depending entirely on individual choice. Proceeds from the affair will be used to send delegates to the annual convention of the National Credit Association to be held in April in Jacksonville. The Atlanta club is now a part of the national organization.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will love you to dance and make love. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quies" girls. When they go to parties they want girls who are full of pep. So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and cures distress from female functional disorders. You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Mattison-Rauschenberg Marriage Solemnized at Afternoon Rites

Miss Myrtice Louisa Mattison, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wivie Mattison, of Decatur, became the bride of Malvin Lester Rauschenberg Jr. at an afternoon ceremony solemnized yesterday at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Clairmont avenue.

Dr. Louie D. Newton officiated at the marriage service in the presence of the two families and close friends. Miss Eula Hancock presented a program of nuptial music.

The ceremony was performed in the spacious living room where an improvised altar was formed in front of the mantel. Palms were banded as a background for branched candelabra holding white burning tapers. A mound of calla lilies graced the center of the mantel with candelabra holding lighted tapers on either side. White snapdragons and narcissi were used throughout the reception rooms, carrying out the white and green motif.

Miss Vella Marie Behm served as the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a street length gown of navy blue sheer. The bodice was made with a surplus top, which was tucked. The neckline and short sleeves were piped with dusty pink. Her navy hat and accessories matched her gown, with gloves of dusty pink. She carried a bouquet of briarcliff roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Alexander Wivie Mattison and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Carl V. Rauschenberg, who acted as best man.

The bride chose for her wedding gown, a model of aqua marine blue crepe. The gown featured a high neckline, a short flared skirt and a japonica kid belt. A smart bolero braided in soutache braid completed the costume. The bride wore a diamond and pearl necklace, which was a gift from Mrs. Rauschenberg, the groom's mother, and was worn at her wedding when she became the bride of Mr. Rauschenberg. Her hat and accessories were navy and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies, centered with rubrum lilies.

Mrs. Mattison, the bride's mother, wore dusty pink crepe and black accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of lavender orchids.

Mrs. Rauschenberg, mother of the groom, wore navy and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies, centered with rubrum lilies.

MY DAY: The White House Gets New Rugs

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—The weather is in conspiracy against me, for when I am so busy that I can't possibly go out, the sun shines, and when I have two hours free and plan to go out for a ride, the rain comes down in torrents. I was completely disgusted this morning to awake to the pattering of rain on the roof below my window. But then, nothing is ever entirely bad, for this has given me much more free time to do a number of things which I should do.

My brother, looking extremely fit and full of pep, appeared for breakfast and, much amused when Mrs. Nesbitt, the housekeeper, came up to show me the menu for lunch and my housekeeping for the day took about three minutes. As she left, however, she asked me if I would please come down to look at a set of rugs before the house was open to visitors. Several rooms on the second floor need new rugs and, as usual, the argument goes on—shall one buy one expensive rug at a time with the knowledge that it will last longer, or shall we get inexpensive rugs which will make the rooms look fresher and brighter, but which will have to be replaced very much sooner. We are deciding, I think, on the more expensive type of rug and are buying only one at a time. I looked at some yesterday and some today, and will see more the end of the week. Unfortunately, I always like the most expensive ones!

The four big double-bed mattresses and springs are being done over because my family informed me how very uncomfortable they were. I only hope they will return in such good condition that, from now on, every guest will enjoy a good night's rest.

I am particularly interested now in the possibility of peace between the two factions of labor. This rift has undoubtedly harmed both labor and business. I have never been quite able to understand why there could not be more flexibility in these big organizations which would allow certain groups to organize in one way, and others, if they preferred, in another. This should not preclude unity on basic interests which are important to all groups in the working world. When organized labor is really such a small percentage of labor as a whole, I feel that it cannot afford to be divided without losing some of the strength of its leadership.

In New York state I understand that there are a number of bills being introduced in the legislature to include domestic workers under the social security act and the wages and hours law. I hope that farm labor will also be included wherever possible. Other countries seem to manage to do it through the use of stamps. Perhaps that method might also simplify for us the difficulties of administration which, in the past, always precluded the inclusion of these two groups of labor under any of these measures.

Treatment for Painful Heel Spurs

By Dr. William Brady.

In cases of painful heel in which X-ray pictures show spurs, sharp projections of bone from the heel bone (calcaneum) the spurs themselves do not account for the pain, for in some cases there is plenty of pain without any spur. The pain is probably caused by periostitis (inflammation of the membrane covering bone) set up by pulling and tearing of the periosteum by the tissues of the under surface of heel or by injury of the spur or by inflammation of a bursa or lubricating pad near the spur.

In some instances heel spurs may be demonstrated in the X-ray picture yet there is no heel pain. In any case of painful heel if there is obviously acute inflammation, as shown by redness and swelling, absolute rest in bed is essential, with local treatment to relieve the pain, either moist heat or dry heat or diathermy. If there is no acute redness or swelling, it is sufficient to keep the weight off from the tender part of heel by means of special shoes and soft insoles or thick felt pads ring-shaped around the tender part of heel.

In some cases it may be necessary to administer a general anesthetic, but local anesthesia may suffice, and remove the spur through an incision near the border of the lower surface of the heel.

A conservative and usually satisfactory method of treatment described by Dr. James R. Regan, Milwaukee, is a preliminary injection of local anesthetic, followed in a few minutes by an injection of a sclerosing solution such as is used in the injection treatment of varicose veins, hemorrhoids, hernia. This uniformly brings rapid relief, and a second injection is seldom required. Of course the purpose of the injection is to obliterate the bursa which has formed and become inflamed near the tip of the spur.

Occasionally this method fails to bring relief, but as a rule it gives relief lasting two or three years, after which a second injection may be given if necessary.

Good Any Season

New Slip Covers Just the Thing For Spring

Get ready for spring now! Transform your shabby old sofa with a crisp new slip cover.

Not only easy but fun to make your own these days when the shops have such stunning materials.

The slip cover in our picture is a smart stripe in soft greens on a gray ground. New and striking—the way the stripes are arranged, vertically on back and seat, horizontally on arms, sides and in the pleated flounce. Bound seams give a neat finish.

Quickly you can make this cover, give it a glove-like fit by following step-by-step directions. Take off the pillows and smooth fabric down the back and across the seat—right side up for bound seams—leaving a 4-inch "tuck-in" between back and seat to lessen strain.

Next pin to upholstery—placing pins where seams will be. Cut along edges, leaving 1½ inches seam allowance. Other sections—arms, back of sofa and sides—you fit the same way, leaving 2-inch tuck-ins between seat and arms. Cut paper patterns for arm fronts. A good job of pinning means quick basting, perfect fit—so work carefully.

The box-pleated flounce? Pleat and pin into place after you've stitched the rest of the cover. If the flounce is to have 2-inch pleats with 2-inch spaces between—you'll need to make a strip a little more than twice as long as the distance around the couch.

Pillows you make in a jiffy, smoothing and pinning the fabric exactly as you do for other pieces. Leave a placket opening at the back.

Our 40-page booklet gives you complete step-by-step instructions and diagrams for making slip covers for all kinds of chairs, sofas. Tells how to measure, cut and fit. Gives decorator's suggestions for color schemes and trimmings. Also directions for upholstered covers.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, MAKING SLIP COVERS SUCCESSFULLY, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Student Admits An Inferiority Complex

By Caroline Chatfield

Dear Miss Chatfield: I'm a sophomore in my state university and make top grades, so that proves that I'm not altogether dumb; but I might as well be, as far as talking is concerned. When I'm in a crowd I have the crazy idea that somebody might read my thoughts so I just empty them out on my head. You've guessed my secret. I have a most awful inferiority complex. The suggestions you have offered other people have seemed so sensible and feasible that I'm looking to you for help and promising to cooperate with you in plan you suggest.

C. W.

Answer: "Set yourself free." These words are written on the fly leaf of the first section of a best seller and the chapter that follows is headed "The Cure of Inferiority." There is a nutshell, young man, is the gist of the matter. Nobody can free you but yourself (administered in all sympathy) is the best way to start you off.

You can't take part in conversation because you are so taken up with the impression you are going to make. You want to be sure that what you say won't let you down before your friends who think you're smart. Well, they won't think it long if you continue to sit like a bump on a log, contributing nothing but uneasy silence to the group you happen to be in. Those top grades will get you a diploma but they will do you precious little good otherwise unless you get on top of your fears.

Next time you pass a boy in the dormitory run your eye over his costume and give him a compliment about his sweater or his baggy breeches. Next time you go to a lecture look at the lad seated beside you and ask him a question about the lecturer. Next time you are in a group pick out one girl or boy who seems to be as uncomfortable as you are and throw him or her a line of conversation, if it's no more than "Have you read; have you seen this or that?" Finally, you will begin to see and hear what's going on around you and forget yourself occasionally.

A funny boy writing in the New Yorker says he collects startling facts from World Almanacs to get the attention of his dinner partner when conversation has died on him and this mightn't be a bad idea for a boy when his cat gets his tongue: just to spring a startling fact for which he can give good authority—should his listeners run him in.

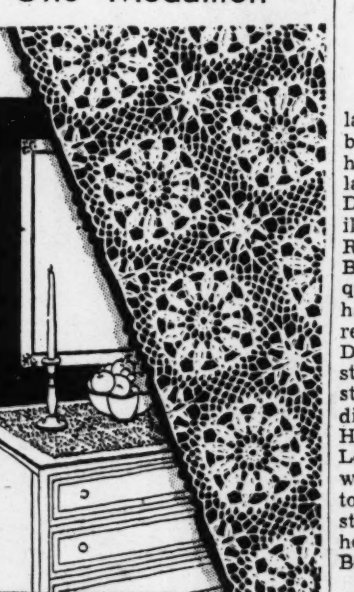

Maybe these little exercises will produce mental anguish. You're having it anyhow and getting nowhere, whereas if you will only bruise yourself by straining at your bars you can set yourself free.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

WORDS OF WISDOM. After listening to thousands of prayers for pardon to offenders, I can hardly recall a case where I did not feel that I might have fallen as my fellowman has done, if I had been subjected to the same demoralizing influences and pressed by the same temptations. —Horatio Seymour.

Fashion threads its way to a new climax in this evening gown worn by Dorothy Lamour in "St. Louis Blues." Black threads are shot through gold lame. The gown features a belted, fitted silhouette with modified train. Shoulder straps are of black thread border. A long sleeve black velvet lumberjack wrap may be worn over the gown for dinner dates.

Gene Raymond To Write Operetta for Jeanette

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—Roland Young is now known as the boy-friend of Fay Bainter. He has played this part in his two last pictures—"Yes, My Darling Daughter" and the current "Family Reunion." Cary Grant and Randy Scott twosomeing at the Brown Derby. A feminine acquaintance says to Cary, "What have you been doing?" "Nothing," replies Grant morosely. . . . Olivia De Havilland, who always went straight home after a day at the studio, has broken this rule to dine out every night with Howard Hughes. . . . Vivien (Scarlett) Leigh receives $1,000 a week—which is small money according to the high standards of the movie stars. . . . The stork is rumored hovering over the Ronald Colman-Benita Hume household.

Gene Raymond is writing an operetta to star wife Jeanette MacDonald. His plan at present is not to accompany Jeanette on her imminent concert tour—he has no desire to tag along in the role of "Mr. Jeanette MacDonald." But to kill rumors of divorce that invariably crop up when film stars are parted, Gene will make several flying visits to his wife. . . . David Niven had to cry in "Wuthering Heights," but couldn't (He had the same difficulty in "Dawn Patrol.") Finally, Director Willie Wyler became angry and ordered menthol and clysterine. But the only effect was to make David look as though he had a bad cold. "It's no use," said Niven. "I've never been able to cry in my life." The scene was changed.

Martha Raye is burning over that photograph in a national magazine in which you can see the filling in her upper teeth. Poor Martha! She wants to go down in film history as the possessor of beautiful lips. But the photographers insist on lensing that mouth of hers. . . .

Q. How does cellulose acetate rayon react to an overheated iron? A. Either by puckering or shriveling or by melting entirely. A moderate iron should be used for all rayon materials.

Q. I want to burn pyrethrum powder to destroy roaches in my apartment. How much is needed for one room, and how long should the room be closed? Will the fumigation harm the furnishings? A. About one-half pound is sufficient for one room, which should be kept tightly closed for 6 to 12 hours. Burning pyrethrum will not harm the furnishings or human beings.

Q. What kinds of apples are best for eating? A. Baldwin, Delicious, Gravenstein, Grimes Golden, Jonathan, McIntosh, Northern Spy, Spitzenberg, Winesap and Imperial.

Q. When does the fetus take a definitely human form? A. About the end of the second month of development.

Performing Duty Of "Bridge Doctor"

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Dear Mr. Sharpsteen: I wish you would please bid the following hand for me. MRS. L. E. A. The bidding, neither side vulnerable:

West—1 Diamond.
North—1 Heart.
East—1 Spade.
South—2 Clubs.
I was sitting south and held:
S—6.
H—Q 9 8 6 5 3
C—J 5 3 2

Answer: Raise partner to four hearts immediately. While the hand contains but five supporting tricks for your partner's overall, it is certain your side has little or no defensive value against opponents' trump attack. Your partner's hand is definitely limited in honor-trick strength or a takeout double would have been preferred to the one heart overall.

PLAYING TRICK STRENGTH. You have a right to figure 21-2 tricks in hearts, two for the six-card length and the trump queen is worth one-half trick. The singleton spade is valued at two tricks, holding six trumps. The four-card club suit headed by the jack is valued at one-half trick, giving you a total of five supporting tricks.

ANOTHER ANGLE. Having now performed the sacred duty of bridge doctor for Mrs. L. E. A. a confession might interest a certain type of bridge addict who follows this column.

The hand is truly a tempting dish of apple sauce in view of the bidding. In a dog-eat-dog rubber or tournament game, your humble contributor could not resist bidding three no-trump with the above hand. The two hands are apparently helpless against what looks like an approaching game or slam by adversaries. Some sort of a barricade should be thrown up against opponents.

FRIGHTENED OPPONENTS? At 50 points a trick, down nine is not a bad sacrifice. If opponents double, four hearts is the escape and south's apparently insane three no-trump may serve to take opponents' minds off their real business of playing the deal at a slam the other way across the table.

"I'll tomorrow. Mail your bridge problems to Harold Sharpsteen, care The Atlanta Constitution. (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

This New Home Will Reflect Individuality

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

I guess the Randalls are really serious about building—for they've reached the point where they've got to be in the middle of the night to take another look at the blue prints.

The plans for that house were drawn ages ago, but for first one reason and then another, they would put off building on the lot. And in the meantime they've worked over the plans till they're better than new. Now that they're actually ready to build, they're pepped up all over again when their dream is really coming true. It will be a white colonial house with a whitewashed rail fence enclosing part of the yard.

Mr. Randall has every detail of the landscaping already thought out, while Mrs. R. has spent her time planning the interior decorations. She's even decided exactly which of her old things to keep and which will have to go. And what new additions she'll make. And it does sound very attractive. The downstairs walls will all be done in quite a pale aqua with light natural pine woodwork—a very effective combination. The fireplace wall in the living room will be entirely paneled in that light honey pine and in the dining room there will be a pair of pale pine built-in corner cupboards.

In Russel Tones. The living room rug will be new—a plain beige-weave green-blue, not too dark and in a dullish off tone. A pair of love seats on either side of the fireplace will be in henna covering, as will an extra easy chair. One lounge chair will be in a gold and aqua stripe and a wing chair will have a mellow crevel patterned linen. This same figured linen (in russet tones, blue-greens and natural) is used for draperies. A chest on chest of dignified mien, an interesting knee-hole desk and incidental pieces will be of honey maple—all new.

In the dining room, the Randalls will use the rug they've had in the living room of the old house, an oriental in subdued tones with gold predominating. The old walnut dining room furniture will be retained—with fresh gold seats. Accessories of brass will contribute to the bright effect.

It won't be the most exciting house in the world but it will be very livable, very tranquil, very gracious. And there will be provision for all their activities, in addition to the usual conveniences, there will be places for bridge tables, golf clubs, skates, schoolbooks and all such. But most of all it will reflect the Randalls' own individuality, and all the loving pains that have gone into its planning.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin, care The Atlanta Constitution, for her bulletin, "How to Make a Slip-cover That Won't Wrinkle or Bag." (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

STARS SHINE OVER GEORGIA
By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON
Foremost American Astrologer

R. E. ROUNTREE. July 6 marks the natal date of R. E. Rountree. This brings this birthdate under the influence of the zodiacal sign cancer, the sign of love of home, conservatism, tenacity and dignity. The position of the planet Saturn in this chart gives a studious, scientific type of mind. Motive counts for much with those born under this influence. The Mars position gives executive talent and posts of responsibility.

Four planets in air signs denote not only keen intellectuality, but friends and splendid social qualities, and become the promise of continued and lasting success. The Mercury position creates a love of harmony in all things, environment as well as tastes. The Moon-Mars position bestows a practical and enterprising nature, excellent for organization, whereas the aspect of the planet Jupiter to the Sun becomes a strong indication of continued worldly success.

Mrs. Bernice Denton Pierson, Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Please prepare astrological forecast, according to the rules of astrology, of the birth date submitted below and return to the name and address given. I enclose:

1. Self-addressed, stamped envelope.
2. Ten cents in stamps or coin to cover mailing cost.

Birthday— Year Month Date of Month

You may obtain as many astrological forecasts as you wish for your family and friends. There is nothing to do except send in the birth date, address and 10 cents in stamps or coin to cover the cost of mailing, in accordance with this coupon.

Good Posture Makes Height An Asset to the Tall Girl

By Ida Jean Kain.

We have been stressing exercise to streamline the buxom, to fill out the thin and to stretch the short . . . and, as usual, nothing has been done about the tall girl, who needs to be encouraged to live up to her height.

So we went over to see Rose Bampton, the Metropolitan Opera soprano, who is the loveliest example we know of the tall girl who makes height an asset. She is five feet, nine inches tall and doesn't mind in the least—and neither does anyone else! In fact, it's just the other way around. After seeing Rose Bampton, you are more than likely to long for a few more inches of height, because this star is justly famous for her graceful carriage and good figure.

What a contrast she offers to the tall girl who seeks to conceal her height by stooping! Can you imagine an opera star slouching on to the stage with her shoulders hunched over? That wouldn't take a fraction of an inch off her height. It would only call attention to an ungainly carriage. "The tall girl," declares Miss Bampton, "has only to take advantage of what she has." And the way to do that, she believes, is to keep your mind on walking, standing and sitting with head and chest up, tummy up and in, and back flat, until good posture becomes automatic.

If you have been making a habit of slouching, this firm believer in good posture for the girl over five feet five recommends a set of exercises that she herself has found helpful. You will get excellent results from them.

Here is the first: Stand with the heels against a wall and keeping the knees straight, drop the upper part of the body forward at the waist, having it completely relaxed. Then, counting eight slowly, begin with the end of the spine and force the backbone, bit by bit, up against the wall. Finally, lift the chest and head and try to flatten the back of the neck against the wall. Hold the body erect for a moment, then relax forward again. Repeat four times. You couldn't find an exercise that would do more to strengthen the muscles of the back and tummy. Why not do it every day, several times?

In the second exercise, keep the head and shoulders erect and push up with the shoulders until they almost touch the ears. Then, still holding the shoulders up, rise to the balls of the feet and walk about the room to a count of four, lifting the legs high at the knees, but without bending the body at the waist or lowering the shoulders. Relax completely, and repeat. Be careful not to let the shoulders round forward when you hunch them up. The exercise will help you to straighten your shoulders and to develop poise.

The last exercise, Miss Bampton says, will help you to acquire a graceful walk. It is done to a count, and the movements should be rhythmic. Use either a count of four or a count of eight, so long as you can fit your movements into the rhythm. Begin by flexing the right leg, using the hip and thigh muscles, and at the same time push yourself forward with the left foot. Repeat the step with the left leg flexed, pushing with the right foot.

New Front Fullness

By Lillian Mae

Suited to the happy, active social life you lead . . . Lillian Mae's new pattern 4062, with the flattering front fullness that's being highlighted this spring! It's a princess type dress, carefully designed to look lovely on every type of "14 to 42" figure. You'll be so pleased with the clever detail of the double panel, set in with twin points at top. By using a print with a plain as we suggest, your figure will have springlike charm, and new slenderness. An equally gay effect is secured by a two-color treatment. Or, if you prefer, have one color throughout, but do let that color be one of the bright, new, flower-like shades!

Pattern 4062 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 42. Size 16 takes 2 3/4 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 3/8 yards contrast. Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to Lillian Mae Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

French Film Offered

The Alliance Francaise d'Atlanta will present the French film, "Les Parles de la Couronne," at two showings at the Tenth Street theater, on Saturday at 10 o'clock and 11:30 o'clock.

This film written and produced by the great contemporary playwright, Sacha Guitry, offers the fairy tale of the four pearls of a necklace given by Pope Clement VII to Catherine de Medici and which presumably adorn the English crown. It covers four centuries, from 1518 to 1937, is profuse with English and French historical personages, each one of these speaking his own language. English subtitles are supplied, but the dialogue is delivered with clarity and follows the graceful and deliberate movement of the picture.

Miss Harriet McKay Becomes Bride of Dr. William Hazlehurst

MACON, Ga., March 1.—Miss Harriet Letcher McKay and Dr. William Derrel Hazlehurst, of Charleston, S. C., were married at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the First Presbyterian church here.

Dr. Rutherford E. Douglas, of Henderson, Ky., uncle of the bride, officiated, and Mrs. J. C. Rousseau, organist, presented a musical program.

Ushers were Charles DuBose Hazlehurst, of Sarasota, Fla., brother of the groom; David Hazlehurst, cousin of the groom, and Henry Lamar and Hal Hatcher.

Miss Carolyn Anderson was bridesmaid. Miss Blythe McKay, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

They wore identical gowns of canary yellow chiffon made with full, flaring skirts, which fell from high Empire waists. Their wide-brimmed leghorn hats were trimmed with bands of yellow grosgrain which tied in back and fell in streamers to the floor. Their bouquets of spring flowers combined daffodils, blue hyacinths and rust-colored tulips.

Given in marriage by her brother, Albert Walters McKay, the bride was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Robert Crookford Hazlehurst, of Dunedin, Fla., who was best man.

The bride wore the handsome lace wedding dress worn by her mother, the former Miss Harriet Letcher, of Richmond, Ky., when she and the late Albert McKay, of Macon, were married in 1905. The bodice featured short puffed sleeves and a creamy satin girdle. She carried a cascade bouquet of Joana Hill roses and valley lilies. Her tulle veil was caught to her hair with a spray of valley lilies, and extended over the skirt to form a train. She wore a strand of seed pearls and a seed pearl pin worn by her mother at her wedding. The lace handkerchief she carried was loaned her by the groom's mother, the former Miss Katie Louise DuBose, of Athens, who carried it when she married the late Captain Hazlehurst, of Macon.

After the ceremony Mrs. Albert McKay, mother of the bride, entertained at a reception at her home on Hines terrace for members of the families and the wedding party. The wedding party and Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Hazlehurst, of Dunedin, Fla., mother of the groom, received.

Dr. Hazlehurst and his bride left by motor for a wedding trip to an unannounced destination. For traveling the bride wore a black and white print suit and a long tailored black coat. Her wide-brimmed black straw hat was trimmed with a white band and worn with black patent accessories.

The couple will reside in Charleston, where Dr. Hazlehurst is an interne at Roper hospital, and where he will be a resident physician next year.

JACOBS THINKS FIGHT WILL HIT MILLION MARK

Galento Says He'll Have To Make Good Boasts About Whipping Louis

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 1. (P)—Promoter Mike Jacobs made his expected announcement today that Tony Galento would meet Joe Louis in a heavyweight championship bout sometime in June.

Two-Ton Tony signed for the bout late last night and Jacobs said Louis' agreement was assured. The site of the battle has not been decided, but Jacobs said it probably would be in New York, Philadelphia or Chicago. Mike thinks it will hit the million-dollar mark in attendance.

Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, who had first call on Galento's services, said he agreed to let Jacobs stage the fight to give Tony a chance at the title and incidentally in consideration of "a nice little percentage."

Jacobs declined to say how much Taylor or the fighters would receive.

The contracts gave Jacobs the right to Galento's services for five years, with Taylor to get his cut on all fights during that time. Tony's manager, Joe Jacobs, signed a five-year contract with Taylor when pneumonia prevented Galento from going through with a scheduled bout with John Henry Lewis for the Philadelphia impresario.

Galento was jubilant over his chance at "Dat Bum," as he refers to the negro champion.

"I've been saying I'll knock him kicking," he declared. "Now I guess I'll have to do it."

Mike Jacobs made his announcement to newspapermen at his beach cabana. The match had been expected since Galento knocked out Abe Feldman here last Thursday night while Jacobs looked on.

MADAMS FACES MASKED TERROR

Last week the match between Jack McAdams, southern light-heavyweight champion, and the Red Devil, masked warrior, ended in a riot when the usually calm champion when berserk, lost his head and proceeded to toss his opponent, the referee and every one he could get his hands on—out of the ring.

Finally six brave policemen were able to conquer McAdams, who had gone mad following a fall out of the ring on his head. Handcuffs were snapped on Jack, and an hour later he admitted he didn't remember a thing that had happened. Although Jack was disqualified he did not lose his title, since the agreement was that the title could not change hands on a foul.

Tomorrow night—this time with Tiny Ruff as referee—they meet again. The Red Devil has agreed to unmask if he loses.

Benny Cohen will meet John Mauldin and Paddy Nolan will oppose Sammy Miller. The show opens at 8:30 o'clock.

V. M. C. A. PLAYOFFS TONIGHT.
The "Y" Triangles defeated Ahepa, 22-21, at the V. M. C. A. last night to break a tie for the last-half title in the Atlanta league and qualify for the championship playoff tonight. It was a close game all the way, with the Triangles ahead twice by six points and Ahepa leading twice by four. The count was 20-20 with four minutes to play and the lead changed hands every half-minute the rest of the way with Jim Shockley's rebound shot deciding the game for the Triangles.

The Triangles will play the Aces, first-half winners, at 9 o'clock tonight. Town Square and Dental College will decide the City league title at 7 o'clock and Ryherd and Gold Shield will play for the City league crown at 8.

One would have thought, off-hand, that Kenneth Rogers' hard luck in the fields would end with an unfortunate incident involving a May colt.

This happened at Waynesboro when Mr. Rogers bravely deserted a wagon for a horse, and picked the wrong horse. It's excusable to pick the wrong horse in a race, but Mr. Rogers had no alibis after reaching the creek and soaking in its frigid depths.

May Day added insult to injury by not only laying down but also by wallowing The Constitution's crack photographer. And it was a very cold day.

Rogers redeemed himself somewhat by holding his camera high above his head and not allowing a drop of water to touch it. That was a pretty resourceful move.

In fact, that sort of thinking goes hand in hand with what happened on the outskirts of our town the other day.

It seems that a colored fellow drove his car through a red light and a patrol car instantly whizzed up alongside.

"Say, what do you mean going through that red light?" asked the officer.

"Well, suh, boss," he answered, "I seen all the white folks passing through the green light and I just thought the red light was for us colored people."

Anyway, the May colt incident almost had been forgotten when the phone rang.

The voice on the other end sounded almost unmistakably like that of Dr. George Myhrall, but one never can be sure. And especially so if the party does not give a name.

"I thought you ought to know what happened down at Bob Sealy's place during the hunting season," the voice said. "I am pretty sure, without asking, that you haven't already heard about it."

Rogers stationed himself in this turkey blind at 4:30 in the morning. He waited patiently hour after hour. Finally, several hens came by and he got a picture of them. That part was all right. Then more hours passed. And dove kept coming thickly into a near-by field.

"Rogers' patience began to wear out. He had shot the picture he wanted, but he desired a shot at a gobbler. Finally, he couldn't stand it any longer. He reached behind him and picked up that over-and-under gun. He blazed away at the dove.

"Well, sir, I can't tell you how badly I felt about what happened next. Not more than 20 yards away, two huge gobblers rose with a roar of bronze wings and sailed off. One of them gave a saucy flip of its tail in Rogers' direction.

"We might as well have gone on in to camp then. Rogers wasn't any good the remainder of the morning. I just thought you might be interested in hearing about it. Good-bye."

HILL ON ALL-STAR NINE.

Johnny Hill, of Douglasville, who may introduce shin guards for Boston Bee batting practice pitchers, is stationed at third base in the National league's all-star rookie team.

The all-average all-star lineup is as follows:

Hockett, lf	Dodgers	.341
Outlaw, cf	Bees	.339
McLeod, rf	Bees	.331
Hias, 1b	Dodgers	.337
Sorensen, 2b	Reds	.326
Hill, 3b	Bees	.338
Miller, ss	Bees	.290
Masi, c	Bees	.308

The question often is asked as to Hill's chances to stick with the Bees. Johnny is a fine hitter on the line-drive type. He has a great arm. These requisites stand Hill in good stead.

"BRILLIANT SCREWBALL."

Larry McPhail, the Tennesseean who went off on a wartime expedition with Luke Lea, another Tennesseean, to kidnap the Kaiser and returned with the Kaiser's ash tray instead, is colorfully portrayed in this week's issue of The Saturday Evening Post as a "brilliant screwball."

McPhail today is general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and as radical a figure as the national pastime has ever known.

WERBER IS ONLY

HOLDOUT OF A'S

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 1. (P)—Connie Mack, venerable leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, officially opened spring training for his American league baseball club today.

He said he expected to have more than 50 players in uniform by next Sunday, when an intra-squad game will be played.

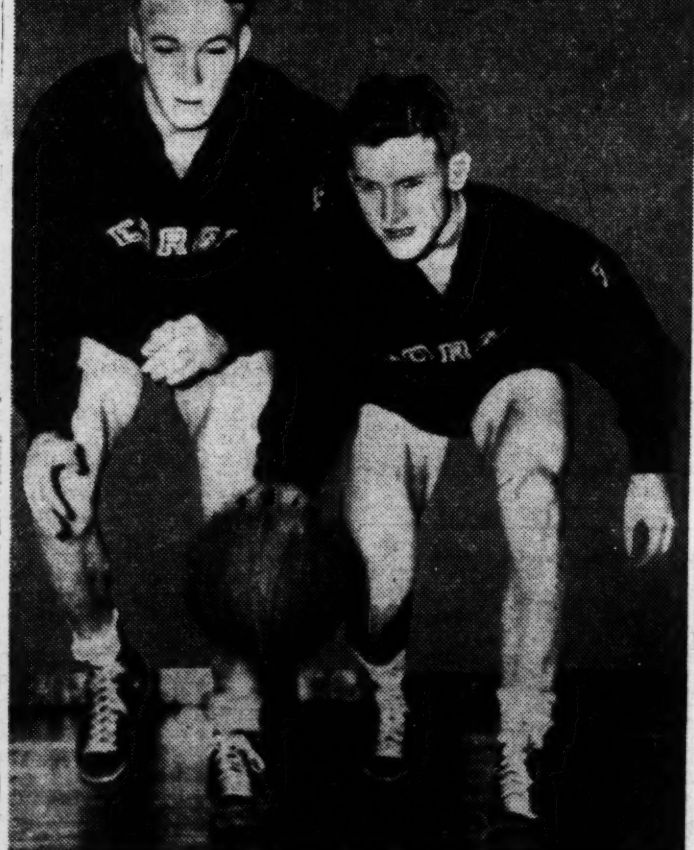

Mack said Bill Werber, veteran third baseman, was his only "serious" holdout.

"Bill was offered a $9,000 contract despite a sorry season last year," Mack commented. "He mailed it back to me asking for $10,000. So I tore up the original contract and mailed him one for $8,000."

Connie said Werber had a successful insurance business at College Heights, Md., and expressed doubt that the third-sacker would come to terms on the $8,000 offer. He called Werber a "truly great" infielder and said he would hate to lose him.

RUSSELL CAGERS TO DEFEND TITLE IN ANNUAL MEET

Six Games Slated Today; Commercial and Elberton Not Entered.

By ROY WHITE.
Fourteen members of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference will start play this afternoon on the Fulton High court in quest of the basketball championship won last year by Russell High, of East Point.

Two members withdrew since the pairings were drawn up, leaving only six games on today's program. Commercial High, entered also in the G. I. A. A. being played on the Henry Grady court, withdrew Monday afternoon when it became known that the playing times for the Typists were conflicting.

Elberton High, beaten in the finals of a district tournament, withdrew Wednesday afternoon, due to too strenuous a schedule within the past few days.

Newnan High, opponents of Commercial in the first game, draws a bye as does Gainesville, Elberton's opponent, and the two meet in a second-round game Friday.

THREE THIS AFTERNOON.

Three games will be played this afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock with R. E. Lee, of Thomaston, and Fulton High. LaGrange and Athens High follow at 4 o'clock with Marist and Marietta playing at 5 o'clock.

Another three games are scheduled for the night program, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Decatur and Griffin will play the first night game, followed by Russell and Spalding at 8:30 and North Fulton and Druid Hills at 9:30.

Russell High was given the No. 1 position in the pairings after winning the title last year and having the best record in the independent games thus far.

Commercial was rated No. 2, but since the Typists have withdrawn, Decatur High is the most likely favorite for the lower bracket.

Three outstanding battles appear on the first day's program and each game will be well worth the while.

LaGrange and Athens will play the first game at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, while Russell and Spalding and North Fulton and Druid Hills will meet in the two feature games on tonight's program.

The Decatur-Griffin game will be no "sissy" affair for their football teams have staged some of the bitterest games in the conference. That warfare will be carried onto the court at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Horse Racing Event

Revives at Eatonton

EATONTON, Ga., March 1. (P)—The Putnam County Fair Association has been formed here to revive the Putnam county fair and horse racing meet that was a popular event here 20 years ago. John L. Adams was named president of the new, non-profit group. A. A. Denham is vice president and B. G. Thompson, secretary and treasurer.

JOHNNY HILL GOING STRONG WITH BOSTON BEES

Johnny Hill, of Douglasville, Ga., and former Atlanta Cracker, is making a strong bid for the regular third base job with the Boston Bees down at Bradenton, Fla. Here he is cavorting around the hot corner. Note the smaller waistline, indicating Johnny is determined to wage a real fight from the start. He hit .334 last year as a Cracker and possesses a wonderful arm. Hill, a left-handed batter, can hit southpaws.

PICARD, HOGAN

LEAD ST. PETE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1.—(UP)—Henry Picard, with a set of golf clubs that couldn't miss, today continued his trek along the winter tournament trail by carding a brilliant 67, five under par, to lead at the end of the first round in the 54-hole St. Petersburg open championship.

The Hershey, Pa., professional wasted no time in making a bid for the $700 first prize money of the St. Petersburg tournament to add to the $2,700 that he had earned by winning the two most recent opens—the Crescent City in New Orleans and the Thomasville (Ga.) tourney.

Picard was two strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, Ben Hogan, of White Plains, N. Y., who had a magic putter to shoot 69.

'POP' WARNER TAKES JOB

Veteran To Act as 'Advisory Coach' at San Jose State.

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 1.—(P)—Glenn Scobey "Pop" Warner, one of the "master minds" of football who recently resigned a lucrative post at Temple University, today accepted an invitation to become "advisory coach" at San Jose State College. Warner starts work next month during spring practice.

The announcement was made by Dr. T. W. McQuarrie, president, who expressed delight at his college having acquired the services of a veteran of 45 years of teaching gridiron tactics. Warner, who will have charge of offense, will be associated with a former player of his, Bud De Groot. The latter played under Warner at Stanford.

Smoll Is Slow Starter;

Richards Seeks Remedy

Southpaw From Ft. Worth To Get Plenty of Leg Exercise in Savannah Drills.

By JACK TROY.
Manager Paul Richards is going to try a "noble experiment" at the Savannah camp in connection with one of the Cracker pitchers. It seems that Clyde Smoll, the left-hander whom the Crackers purchased from Fort Worth, has the reputation of being a slow starter. In all his baseball career he hasn't been consistent in the first part of the season and then finishes in a blaze of glory, as it were.

Scouts have reported that Smoll is virtually unbeatable after July. So Manager Richards hopes to get to the bottom of it in the spring camp. He is curious to know the reason why.

One baseball man gave Richards a tip in an offhand way. He told Pilot Paul that Smoll hadn't been given enough attention in the spring. This may be the answer. And if it is, Smoll will start out as a winner with Atlanta. He will be given attention at Savannah.

Not only that, he will run and run, along with all the other moundsmen, until he is in the pink of condition.

Richards is a firm believer in running as a conditioner. He does not believe a pitcher can do too much running.

That was easy to see at the last camp. Some observers thought Richards was overdoing it. The pitchers virtually ran until their tongues dragged the ground.

But the result was the best conditioned pitching staff in the Southern league. Two 20-game winners were developed.

It also has been said of Smoll by baseball men who have seen him in action over a period that he doesn't field his position well.

This may be because he hasn't had much instruction along this line, too. He'll get the practice in fielding at Savannah.

And the point of the story is that if Smoll begins as a winner with Atlanta some of the credit will belong to Richards, who handles pitchers about as well as anybody in the game today.

GEORGIA TO PLAY

L. S. U., SEWANEE

WINNER TONIGHT

Kentucky Strong Favorite To Win Southeastern Tourney at Knoxville.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 1.—Ready for rugged first round battles, Tech and Georgia basketball teams arrived here today for the annual Southeastern conference tournament.

The crown-defending Jackets face Ole Miss in the morning at 9:45 in their initial tourney engagement. The fourth-seeded Georgia quintet drew a first-round bye and will meet the winner of the L. S. U.-Sewanee contest tomorrow night at 9:30 in their Knoxville debut.

Although both teams arrived on the scene of the tournament in good condition, the Bulldogs of Elmer Lampe carry most of the state's hopes of retaining the title in Georgia. Boasting an 8-3 league record, the Athenians are expected to go further in the annual big 13 meet than Tech, which ended a successful season last year by winning the loop crown.

TECH AND GEORGIA.

However, the sophomore-studded Georgia first is a poor 50-50 bet against the fighting Tigers of Baton Rouge. Coach Roy Munderdorf, of Tech, holds little hopes of his team successfully defending the league pennant.

"Frankly," he said, "we will be lucky to survive our opening game with Mississippi. Hughes is still unable to go at full speed, although he played full-time against Auburn Monday night."

"We expect, however," to give Ole Miss all they can handle."

The Bulldogs, losers only to Auburn, Florida and Tennessee in conference warfare, are confident, and are being picked by many to reach the semi-finals and by many to knock off Kentucky in their bracket and gain a post in the finals.

BULLDOGS INEXPERIENCED.

But the Athenians are inexperienced and will do extremely well to get by L. S. U. and advance to the semi-finals.

Lampe must depend upon sophomores to carry the Bulldogs through the tournament as three of his five starters are serving their first year on the varsity. Dan Kirkland, center; Joe Killian, forward, and Roy Chatham, guard, are expected to match L. S. U.'s Charlie Bowman, Paul Brotherton and Jack Bushman.

Bushman, small but fast forward, is slated to test the ability of Alex McCaskill, one of the league's best guards.

Georgia's sharpshooter.

Lampe will depend on the sharpshooting of Chatham, Killian and Kelly for his team's points. On the other hand, Munderdorf must count on all members of his starting team for the Jacket offense.

Hughes, leading scorer of the Techs, despite his absence from the lineup for three games, will be counted upon as the chief Jacket offensive threat.

Ole Miss, while boasting two fine guards, probably will be unable to match the defensive play of George Smith and Junior Anderson.

THURSDAY'S SCHEDULE.

8 A. M.—Georgia Tech-Ole Miss.
9:45—Georgia Tech-Ole Miss.
11:00—Auburn-Tulane.
2:30—Louisiana State-Sewanee.
3:45—Auburn vs. winner Vanderbilt-Mississippi State.
7:00—Kentucky vs. winner Georgia Tech-Ole Miss.
8:15—Tennessee vs. winner Tulane-Auburn.
9:30—Georgia vs. winner L. S. U.-Sewanee.

RUSSELL ROUTS

NAPS BY 43 TO 11

Russell High's girls continued their unbroken winning streak with a 43-to-11 victory over North Avenue Presbyterian Wednesday afternoon on the East Point court.

It was one of two defeats for the Naps this season in 11 games and one of three in the past five years.

Carawan, Marwitz with 29 of the 43 points were outstanding in Russell's attack. Irwine scored 12 points.

Kent was the only North Avenue player to score field goals and accounted for 10 of the 11 N. A. P. S. points.

North Avenue plays Athens High Friday night in Athens and then comes the annual struggle with Washington Seminary Friday night week on the Boys' High court.

This may be because he hasn't had much instruction along this line, too. He'll get the practice in fielding at Savannah.

And the point of the story is that if Smoll begins as a winner with Atlanta some of the credit will belong to Richards, who handles pitchers about as well as anybody in the game today.

TWO TWIN BILLS ARE SET TODAY AT HENRY GRADY

Commercial - Richmond, Savannah-Jordan Play at 3 and 4 O'Clock.

By ROY WHITE.

Lanier High, the defending champions; G. M. A., Atlanta's city prep winner; Richmond Academy and Savannah High were winners Wednesday night on the Henry Grady court in the opening of the annual G. I. A. A. basketball tournament.

Lanier High coasted to an easy 44-22 victory over Columbus High. G. M. A. eliminated Marist College, 30-15, in a slow game, Richmond eke out a 32 to 21 victory over Monroe Aggies, and Savannah defeated Boys' High, 28 to 26.

Two sessions will be played today, with Richmond and Commercial playing at 3 o'clock and Savannah and Jordan at 4 o'clock. In the night double header, Tech High renews its bitter struggles with G. M. A. at 8 o'clock and Lanier plays Benedictine from Savannah at 9 o'clock.

SMITHIE-G. M. A. FEATURE. That Tech High-G. M. A. game should be one of the real features of the tournament since the two teams share the city prep football championship and G. M. A. won the city prep basketball title with two victories over Tech High.

Getting away to a slow start, G. M. A. led Marist 4 to 2, at the quarter, increased the lead to 15 to 8 at the half and won going away in the last two periods. Both teams missed numerous "crip" shots.

Savannah with a crippled lineup had a tough time beating a vastly improved Boys' High team in the second game. The score was tied at the quarter, 8-all. Boys' High held a 2-point margin at half-way, 12 to 10, but trailed, 21 to 20, going into the final 10 minutes of play.

Little Joe Gaston Jr., son of a former Tech High star, led the way for Boys' High with five field goals, most of which came from long range. The remainder of the scoring was well divided.

Boys' High held a 5-to-0 lead early in the game and it was seven minutes before Eubanks sank a field goal which started Savannah on to victory.

EUBANKS, BERGMAN. Eubanks and J. Bergman shared scoring honors for the visitors with 10 points each.

Lanier High had little difficulty in eliminating Columbus High, 44 to 22, and Coach Selby Buck used every player on the bench. Morrow scored 21 points for the winners.

Renewing their close battles in which each holds victories, Richmond eke out a one-point win over Monroe. Richmond led all the way, 20 to 16 at the half, and 30 to 22 at the third quarter.

The Augusta five exhibited the smoothest, closest guarding team of the season. Hyder, the high scoring Monroe forward, was held to a single field goal and three fouls, all of which came in the second half.

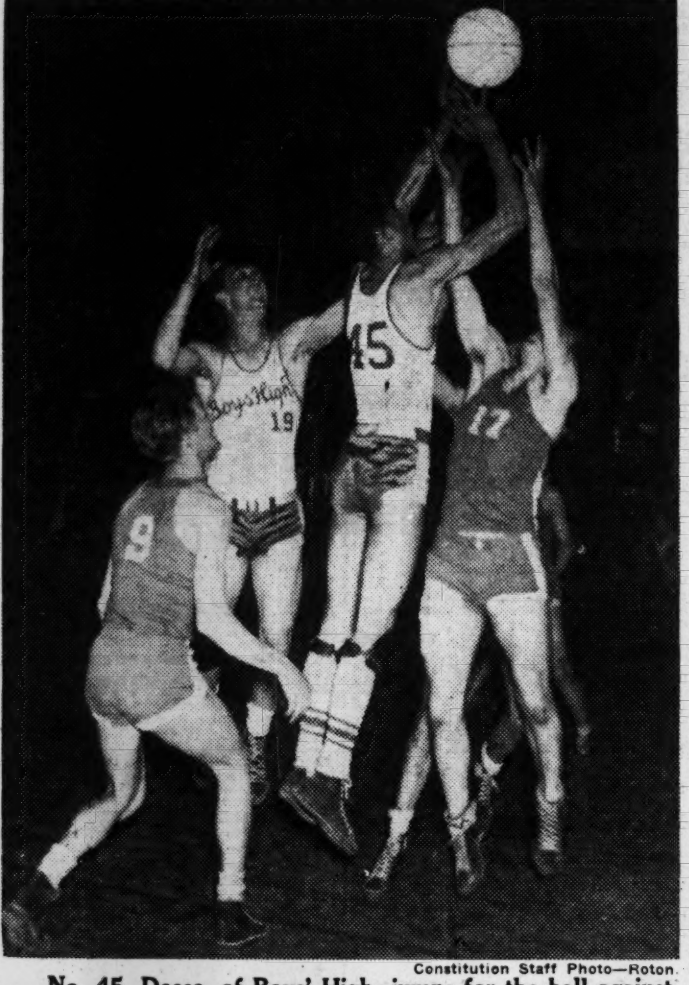

Both teams shot exactly 13 field goals, but Richmond made good six free throws out of 10 chances, while Monroe made only five out of 12 tries.

Davis shot a long try in the last two seconds of the game which rimmed the hoop and rolled out just as the final whistle blew.

ALL IN THE GAME

In an article entitled, "Subtle as a Punch in the Nose," Stanley Frank presents McPhail, the baseball executive who put National league teams under lights.

"In spite of all the minor miracles that McPhail has performed in Cincinnati and Brooklyn (Frank writes), he is unquestionably the most reviled and thoroughly disliked executive in baseball. They say he is an arrogant pop-off, a menace to the stability of the game. They may be right and, then again, the enmity of his colleagues may be just a manifestation of a defense mechanism against the man who would throw a bombshell into a business which has not seen a fundamental change in methods for 35 years."

"Subtle as a Punch in the Nose" offers a keen insight into the activities of McPhail and is well worth reading.

YOUNGSTERS KNOW ANSWERS. If Professor Quiz really wants to have some fun, he ought to try some sports questions out at Bass Junior High.

The Bass youngsters know the answers. This correspondent was thoroughly quizzed in a 45-minute session yesterday. And discovered the youngsters know as much about sports as the next one. Their range includes basketball, baseball and football, in the main.

It began innocently enough as a discussion of occupations and ended up with the sports questions and answers coming thick and fast. The youngsters will trip you up, too, if you don't watch out.

They're proud at Bass Junior High that Charlie Yates, British amateur champion, and Jim Bagby Jr., stellar young pitcher for the Boston Red Sox, attended school there.

Charlie recently gave a talk on banking and one of his former teachers, failing to connect him with the boy who attended classes in knickers, did not recognize Charlie until he started to leave.

Bowden Team Wins Druid Hills Match
Slim Bowden's team defeated H. L. Blackwell's team, 8 to 6, Wednesday afternoon in the first of a series of special tournaments for members of the Druid Hills golf team.

Another event is scheduled for March 29 and the winners will be guests of the losers again.

Bowling
METROPOLITAN CHAMPIONSHIPS. Fourteen women bowlers signed Wednesday evening to roll in the first annual staging of the Metropolitan Atlanta Individual Championships that will be staged on members of the Druid Hills Bowling Center alleys Saturday afternoon and evening and a number of others are expected to sign before game time.

The bowling will get under way on the uptown Lucky Strike alleys at 8 o'clock with the first alleys as the scene of competition for the first three games. At 4 o'clock the event moves to the second floor alleys for another three games at the same bowling center.

STAGEHAND NOW IS HOT FAVORITE IN HIALEAH RACE

Bitter Disappointment Over Withdrawal Expressed by Handlers.

MIAMI, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—War Admiral, recovering from a fever and throat inflammation, was officially withdrawn today from the $50,000 Added Widener Challenge Cup Saturday at Hialeah park because he could not be conditioned in time.

The announcement, forecast yesterday when the Admiral's illness became known, was made by Trainer George Conway today at almost the same time Douglas Geddes, supervisor of admissions, was announcing that all reserved seats in the grandstand had been sold out for the classic.

With Stagehand, Bull Lea and Pastured still in the running along with others, however, track officials still expected a banner crowd and hoped the luster of Florida's leading turf event would not be dulled by the scratching of the horse whose picture adorns the covers of the programs.

The 1937 Kentucky Derby winner will be shipped Monday to the Riddle farm at Berlin, Md., after having run in only one race here. He will be kept in light training, while the horse picture adorns the covers of the programs.

Weather Clears For Santa Anita.
SANTA ANITA PARK, Cal. (UP)—Just when the railbirds had reconciled themselves to predicted rain, winds shifted tonight and the weather prophets issued a new forecast of sunny skies and fast footing for the fifth running of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap Saturday.

The change left the probable field for the mile and a quarter classic unchanged, but prompted owners and trainers to send their charges away on long and fast workouts. The most impressive spins were turned in by Townsend Martin's Cravat, popular choice of the experts, and Nelson Howard's Gosum, which is liked for his stamina in the stretch. Cravat breezed the half in 51 and the mile in 1:39 2-5.

J.P.C. WINS 19TH, ENDING SEASON
Surging to life with a brilliant last half attack led by Captain Morris Katz, the Jewish Progressive Club quieted closed its regular season with a 48 to 36 victory over the Victor Mill team, of Greer, S. C., which had led at the half, 19 to 14.

In the finish, led by the two Katz boys, hand, the fans groggy as the Progressives overcame Victor's lead and went on to win. Hyman Katz, who had been held scoreless in the first half, dropped in four points, which along with the tight defense turned around the visitors by Ginsberg and Greenberg, and the nifty shooting of Morris Katz and Browdy, was enough to turn back the team from Greer.

Cabiness, with 11, and Emery with 9 points, led the Victor team in scoring. Norrell played well at center, but he couldn't keep Browdy from tossing in several cups. Durham looked good at guard, especially in the first half, after a slow start because of the loss of players at the outset of the season, developed into one of the most potent basketball aggregations in the south. They lost an exciting battle to Peerless Mills, of Chattanooga, by one point, and dropped decisions to Hogsansville and Albany. They later gained revenge over the latter two teams, defeating them both in return games. Last night's victory was their 19th of the season.

Central Night school defeated the J. P. C. Cubs, 38 to 33, in the first game of the evening. The Cubs had led 18-11 at the half, but could not find the range after intermission.

Seibert, with 11 points, and Manning and Williams with ten each, led the night school boys. Gershon's nine was tops for the Cubs. Mackey Klein contributed two points to the Cubs' total.

Max Schmeling Sails for Home
NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, German heavy-weight, sails for home on the Deutschland tonight, but says he'll return to fight the winner of the May 25 fight in San Francisco between Max Baer and Lou Nova.

"I was promised that fight by Mike Jacobs before he went to Florida," said Schmeling. "It probably will be held in September."

Schmeling said he might come back in May and go to the coast to see Baer and Nova fight. Asked if he was disappointed at not getting a match with Tony Galento, the German said: "Yes. I like an easy fight, just as the other fellows do."

Pointers Take Back Seat in Annual Grand Junction Championship.

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., March 1.—(AP)—The outstanding performance to date in the national bird dog championship was turned in today by a little black-and-white setter, Sports Peerless Pride, owned by L. M. Bobbitt, of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Pointers have taken virtual command of the National in recent years, having won 19 of the last 24 meets, but today Sports Peerless Pride flashed some of the form that gave his species consecutive victories for the last 12 years of the National starting in 1896.

The little bird-finder discovered five covers and three singles coursed widely, handled well and was still strong at noon at the end of the three-hour, eight-mile run. His brace mate, McEwen, a pointer owned by Mrs. F. C. Payne, of Dayton, Ohio, was tired at the finish. He found four covers and two singles. McEwen won the All-America all-age stakes in 1937 at Brownsville, Tenn.

DUKE, N. C., V. M. I. BOW IN SOUTHERN
RALEIGH, N. C., March 1.—(AP) Duke, defending champion, North Carolina and Virginia Military Institute were knocked out of competition in the first round of the Southern conference basketball tournament tonight.

Richmond University defeated V. M. I., 31-20. N. C. State nosed out Duke 40-39, and Clemson edged out North Carolina 44-43. The three winners will go into the quarter-finals tomorrow afternoon and night with five teams which drew first round byes.

Pairings tomorrow: 3:00 p. m.—Davidson vs. Washington State; 5:30 p. m.—Richmond vs. Maryland; 8:00 p. m.—The Citadel vs. N. C. State; 8:00 p. m.—Wake Forest vs. Clemson.

Mercer Loses First In Dixie Tourney
JACKSON, Miss., March 1.—(AP) Mississippi defeated Mercer, 48 to 45, in an overtime game, last night as the Dixie conference tournament moved through its preliminary round.

Southwestern, of Memphis, and Howard College, of Birmingham, won afternoon games from Chattanooga and Loyola of New Orleans, but the defeats did not eliminate the losers, under the unusual system employed for the tournament. Southwestern trimmed the Moccasins, 42 to 34, while Howard breezed over Loyola, 51 to 32.

Mississippi College ran up 79 points tonight to defeat Mercer. The final score was 79-59 after the Choctaws had pulled ahead 36 to 23 at halftime. Joe Hitt's 26 points topped the scorers.

Progress Made on Building the 'House of Progress'

Shown above is the second step in erecting a cottage in sections in the West Lumber Company's yards. It soon will be taken to the stage of the auditorium, where it will be shown during the Constitution's "House of Progress Exposition," March 13 to 18. It is to be sold to the highest bidder under sealed bids, which will include its removal to a pretty lot in Chelsea Heights, another bedroom added, and made complete for occupancy. Built as a model home, its workmanship and materials will make it an unusually well-built home. Note the upright studs are spaced on 16-inch centers and cross-braced; also that the window openings are 2x4's doubled and spiked together. The 1x6 sheathing is diagonally nailed to the studs, thus giving further strength to the structure.

WILLIAM CONYERS DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Services Will Be Conducted Today for Well-Known Businessman.

William Newton (Red) Conyers, well-known Atlanta businessman and a colonel on the Governor's staff, died unexpectedly yesterday morning at his home, 240 Ponce de Leon avenue. He was 44.

Mr. Conyers, a native of Cartersville, was the son of Mrs. Eliza N. Conyers and the late Colonel James B. Conyers. He was special sales representative for the American Oil Company.

A veteran of the World War, he served two years with the American Expeditionary Force in France as first lieutenant. He was a member of Atlanta Posts Nos. 1 and 40, American Legion, and of the Cartersville Baptist church, and was prominent in business and fraternal circles of Atlanta.

Surviving, besides his mother, are a sister, Mrs. Frank E. Matthews, of Atlanta, and three brothers, C. T. Conyers, of the Conyers Realty Company, and John L. Conyers, of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, Atlanta, and James B. Conyers, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Peachtree chapel, with Dr. Louis D. Newton officiating. Burial will be in Cartersville cemetery under the direction of Brandon-Bond-Condor. A brief service will be held at the graveside with the Rev. Guy Atkinson officiating.

Sharp Increases in Business Shown in Atlanta Reserve Area

Monthly Review Shows Slackening From Brisk Holiday Activity, But Substantial Gains in All Classifications Over Last January.

By The Associated Press.

Marked increases in comparison with 1933 and some slackening from the brisk holiday activity of December marked January's business and trade picture in the southeast.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, in its monthly review for the sixth federal reserve district, reported retail and wholesale trade slightly better than for the same month last year, while construction contracts, building permits, cotton consumption rate and pig iron and coal production were at "substantially higher levels."

While retail trade, adjusted seasonally, declined 3.4 per cent and wholesale turnover was down 7.3 per cent from December, retail merchants did 3.8 per cent better business than in January, 1933, and wholesale sales were up 6.6 per cent. These gains in dollar volume were given

Local No. 1, Amalgamated Skilled Workers, will meet in regular session at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at Odd Fellows Hall, Fair street and Flat Shoals avenue.

Charter members of Lambda Delphian Chapter will meet at the Biltmore hotel Wednesday, March 8.

Junior Class of Georgia Tech will hold its first dance and banquet at the Ansley hotel Saturday, April 15, it was announced yesterday. Charles May is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Solicitor John S. McClelland, of the criminal court of Fulton county, became "your honor" yesterday. He assumed his title as judge of the new division of the same court, and Bond Almand became solicitor.

Welcome Court Social Club will hold its 120th meeting at 8:15 o'clock tonight in its quarters, 28 Pine street.

Joseph E. Brown Junior High school community center will present a minstrel show in the school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight. The program is sponsored by the WPA recreation division, in association with the Atlanta Parks Department and board of education. Several specialty numbers will be presented.

Eugene Harrington, former president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will address Georgia Alpha chapter of Phi Delta Kappa at 6:30 o'clock next Tuesday night in the Ellen Rice theater. "The Merger of the City-County Government" will be his subject. He will be introduced by John R. Howard.

Walter F. Dexter, president of Lions International and California superintendent of public instruction, will address a meeting of Atlanta and Georgia Lions at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Atlanta Athletic Club. More than 300 Georgia educators and patrons are expected to attend.

Construction activity slipped considerably from December levels but the January total stood some 77 per cent above that for the same month last year.

Textile activity stood out in the picture by registering a 4 per cent gain over December as well as checking in 41 per cent above the January, 1933, figures.

Iron and steel production were more strongly maintained in the Alabama district than elsewhere, holding on a par with the December rates and again well above last year's level.

Employment reflected the general trend with jobs down 2.4 per cent from December, up 2.5 from last year. Pay rolls declined 3.4 per cent from December, but were 8.3 above 1933.

ATLANTA RETAIL SALES INCREASED IN JANUARY

Retail sales of 65 reporting Atlanta stores were up 3.7 per cent in dollar volume for January, 1934, as compared with the same month of 1933, according to estimates of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Sales of 387 independent stores in the state showed a 2.7 per cent gain in dollar volume for the same period, but a decline of 42.6 per cent compared with the preceding month. Rome reported the largest increase in total sales with a gain of 25 per cent. Other changes for the reporting cities ranged down to a 7-1-2 per cent decrease for Savannah.

PERKINS IS DENIED WAGE-HOUR FUNDS

$850,000 Appropriation Assigned Directly to Andrews by House Vote.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP) The house transferred from Secretary Perkins to Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews today an $850,000 fund to administer the fair labor standards act until July 1.

After a brisk debate, the members joined the senate in stripping the cabinet member of control of funds for the wage-hour administration which congress last year created within the Labor Department.

The action came in agreeing to a joint senate-house conference report on a $23,015,041 appropriation to meet unexpected needs of a group of federal agents the rest of this fiscal year.

FIRE BOARD PLANS TO SELECT CHIEF

Meeting Tonight Scheduled for Nomination of Successor to O. J. Parker.

A successor to Fire Chief O. J. Parker, who will retire March 20, will be recommended by the board of firemasters at its meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Parker, who has had 41 years' service, filed application for his pension, to become effective March 20. His successor is scheduled to be named by city council Monday.

Councilman John T. Marler, chairman, said the fire board would be asked to nominate one man. Both C. C. Styron and W.

Just "any old coal" won't do for Stokers

If your automatic stoker is not functioning properly, it is likely due to the wrong kind of fuel.

It is not true that "any old coal" will do for stokers. For best results it should be specially prepared — the right kind, the right size, plus hot oil treated to insure cleanliness.

Cresch special processed stoker coal is best for all automatic firing. Try it and see the difference.

BURNS DESCRIBED AT CLUB MEETING

Joshua T. Rose Praised Humble Scottish Poet.

"In Robert Burns, the poet, we have the name more expressive of universal sympathy and inspiration to more people than any other mere man," Joshua T. Rose said last night in an address at the regular meeting of the Burns Club of Atlanta.

Former president of the club, the speaker declared Burns "knew the tinsel, artificial, often deceptive life among the great and near great, contrasted with the life of the humble, hard-working, family-loving, God-fearing people among whom he was raised."

Walter B. Sewart, president, announced the Gloomglooming Club will be in charge of the program for the April meeting.

B. Fannin, assistant chiefs, are candidates.

Election of a new chief also will call for several promotions, Marler said. The board will name an assistant chief, captain and lieutenant.

Parker will retire on his sixtieth anniversary as chief. Now 66 years of age, he joined the department on June 16, 1897. He aided in battling the great Atlanta fire of 1917 and has won distinction for his record.

He succeeded William Butler. In 1935 the department won the national award of the United States Chamber of Commerce for the most effective program. Fire losses during the past six years have been consistently low.

Styron was appointed a member of the department on May 4, 1911. He was made an assistant chief October 1, 1929. Fannin came with the department on May 1, 1908, and was elected assistant chief May 29, 1933.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow in Hartwell Baptist church, and burial will be in Hartwell cemetery.

Senate Resolutions.

The state senate, in session in Atlanta, adopted a resolution of regret at the death of the "outstanding and influential citizen of northeast Georgia," whose public service included three terms as state senator and several years as vice chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

Mr. Skelton began practice in Hartwell in 1889 just after his graduation from the University of Georgia, and three years later took his first public office as mayor, serving until 1898. He became city solicitor in 1900 and served in that post six years, meanwhile going to the national Democratic convention as a delegate in 1904.

In addition to his professional and political activities, he also was a former president of the Farmers and Merchants' bank of Hartwell, an organizer and past president of the Hartwell Chamber of Commerce and the operator of several large farms.

Surviving Relatives.

Mr. Skelton is survived by his wife, the former Miss Jessie Thornton; seven sons, James H. Skelton Jr., of Atlanta, in the state military department; Emmett A. Skelton, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Hugh Skelton, assistant secretary of the present state senate; Carey Skelton, who was associated with the father in law practice here; Joe Skelton, of Washington, D. C.; Marion Skelton, of Knoxville, Tenn., a University of Tennessee student, and Ralph Skelton, Atlanta insurance man, and two daughters, Mrs. Willie L. Brown, of Hartwell, and Mrs. Emmett B. McGulkin, of Knoxville, Tenn. He is also survived by two brothers, Solicitor General A. C. Skelton, of Hartwell, and A. C. Skelton, Hartwell hotel owner, and two sisters, Mrs. Robert H. Burns, of Hartwell, and Mrs. Tim Thornton, of Decatur.

They were:

1. The percentage of improvement in January was well below those recorded in other recent months. The monthly reductions from 1937 to 1938 ranged from 13 to 25 per cent, as compared with the 6 per cent cut in January.

Even in November and December the decreases from 1937 to 1938 were 18 and 13 per cent, although there already had been declines of 10 per cent in those months from 1936 to 1937.

The decrease in traffic fatalities from December to January was only 23 per cent, whereas the average decline between those two months for the last five years has been 27 per cent.

The decreases were not so universal as in earlier months. Of 37 reporting states, only 20 showed reductions, while 15 had more deaths this January than last. In five of these 15 states the increase was 30 per cent or more. Two states showed no change.

Pacific Coast Increase.

All sections of the nation showed some improvement in January except the Pacific coast states, where a 7 per cent increase occurred. The greatest reduction was 19 per cent in the mountain states. North central and south central states reduced deaths 10 per cent.

Wyoming showed the greatest proportional improvement with a drop of 89 per cent; North Dakota's reduction in deaths was 83 per cent.

New York theoretically saved the most lives, 34, by reducing deaths 18 per cent from a year ago. Indiana was second with 24 lives saved, a reduction of 24 per cent.

In 398 reporting cities there were 16 per cent fewer deaths. Ninety-nine cities showed improvement, 227 no change and 72 increases.

Tennessee Votes 'Bone Dry' Repeal

Beauties Picked for Pandora at University of Georgia

Senate Passes House-Approved Measure Amid Cheers; Prompt Veto by Governor Certain.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 1.—(P)—Amid cheers and shouts the state senate late today passed the house-approved Austin bill legalizing liquor in Tennessee at the option of the counties. The vote was 18 to 15, one more than the required majority.

Tomorrow the measure will be sent to the lower chamber for concurrence in several senate amendments and then delivered to the governor for a certain veto.

Wet leaders said they had assurance Governor Cooper, who campaigned on a pledge not to sign a repeal bill that did not provide for a state-wide referendum, would not delay his veto, thereby making possible repassage of the bill probably during the day.

In its essentials, the measure permits counties to legalize the sale of liquor by a majority vote. Sale would be by package only. One dry senator, John Holladay, of Cookeville, whose father was a member of the senate 30 years ago and was a co-sponsor of the state's "bone-dry" law, charged prohibition leaders with a lack of co-operation in the battle against repeal.

PLAN EXEMPTIONS FROM SALES TAX.

ONTARIO, Ala., March 1.—(UP)—The Alabama senate finance committee today approved exemptions from the sales tax for fuel oil used in ships, ship's stores and announced it would approve exemption of home-delivered milk. The committee then refused to approve a $248,000 emergency appropriation for state schools.

N. C. HOUSE GETS BIGGEST MONEY BILL.

RALPHIGH, N. C., March 1.—(UP)—North Carolina's largest appropriation bill in the history of the state was presented to the house today with its companion finance measure expected tomorrow or Friday.

S. C. SOLONS REFUSE TO HIT SALES TAX.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 1.—(UP)—South Carolina representatives today refused to go on record as opposed to any sales tax. A bill providing for semi-annual safety inspection for automobiles and trailers was killed by the house.

J. E. Forsyth Believed Choice for RFC Post.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1. J. E. Forsyth, of Cairo, Ga., appeared today in the opinion of some Georgia members of congress as a "likely choice" for appointment as Georgia manager of RFC, to succeed Scott Chandler.

While RFC officials declined comment, they disclosed that Forsyth was in Washington this week, but left yesterday for home. It was understood that Forsyth has been recommended for the post by Governor Rivers. Senators from Georgia have not been consulted about filling the vacancy, it was said.

FIRST LADY SANCTIONS 'SWINGING' OLD SONGS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 1.—(P)—Maxine Sullivan, negro swing singer, said today she had a letter of encouragement from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

She said she received the following reply on White House stationery, with Mrs. Roosevelt's signature: "I can't imagine what the songs you mention would be like put to swing time, but there is nothing wrong in your doing it. If people like it and you succeed, you will soon be doing other things. You cannot please everyone all the time."
